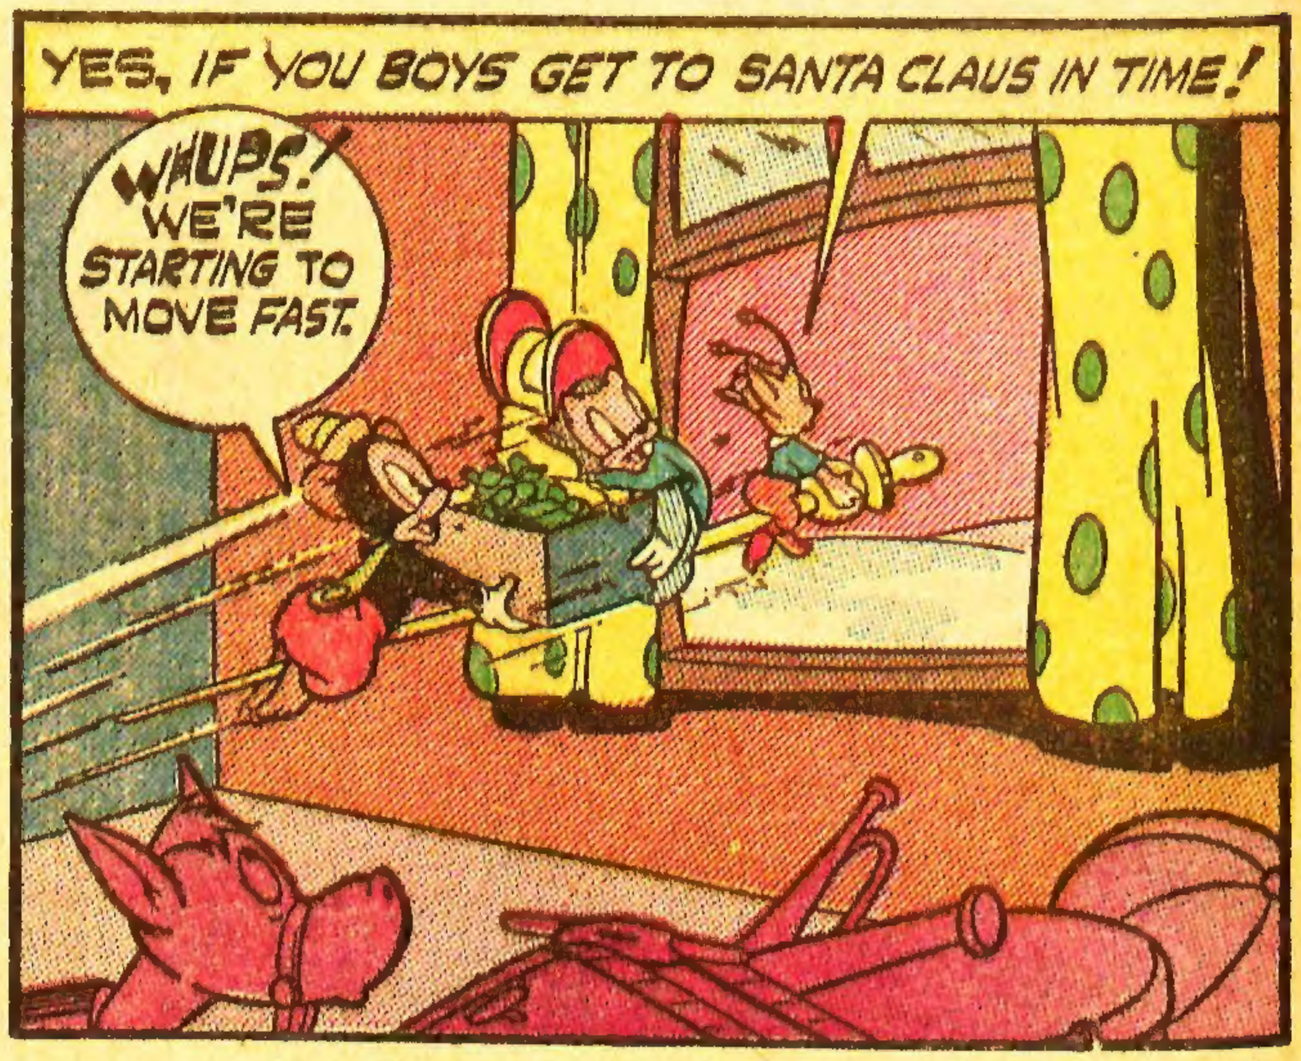
NOW ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS SIT ON MY MAGIC WAND AND THINGS WILL START TO HAPPEN!
DO YOU THINK ALL THE FRISKY FABLE FOLK WILL GET THEIR TOYS?



YES, IF YOU BOYS GET TO SANTA CLAUS IN TIME!
WHUPS! WE'RE STARTING TO MOVE FAST.

WHEE! THIS IS REAL MAGIC!
GOSH, THERE'S SANTA, AND HE LOOKS VERY WORRIED!

HELLO, SANTA CLAUS, WHAT'S WRONG?
MY WORKERS ALL CAUGHT COLDS, AND I HAD TO SEND THEM HOME TO BED... MY REINDEER TOOK THEM!
AND YOU HAVEN'T ANY TOYS MADE YET!

THAT'S WHY MAGIC ELF TOLD US TO BRING ALONG THESE SOLDIERS!
BUT THESE TOY SOLDIERS ARE NOT ENOUGH TOYS!
YOU'LL SEE. HE'S GOING TO USE THIS MAGIC WAND!

PRESTO!
GOSH!!! A CREW OF WORKERS. GO AHEAD, MEN. LET'S WORK FAST!
I'LL HELP TOO!

Happy New Year

AND SO THE MEN WORK UNTIRINGLY THROUGH THE NIGHT TO PILE UP TOYS FOR SANTA.

WELL-WELL, THIS IS FINE! B-BUT HOW WILL I DELIVER THE TOYS? MY REINDEER WON'T BE BACK IN TIME!

SOME MORE MAGIC!

QUICK! LET'S GO OUTSIDE NOW!

AND PRESTO

SEE? MAGIC ELF NEVER FAILS ANYONE. NOW TO DELIVER THE TOYS!

THANK YOU VERY MUCH, BOYS. I HOPE I'LL BE ABLE TO DELIVER THEM IN TIME!

WE MUST BE GOING NOW!

G'BYE!

and Christmas morning....

SQUIRE, LET'S LOOK INTO FRISKY FABLE STUDIOS AND SEE IF THE FRISKY FABLEVILLE FOLK RECEIVED THEIR GIFTS!

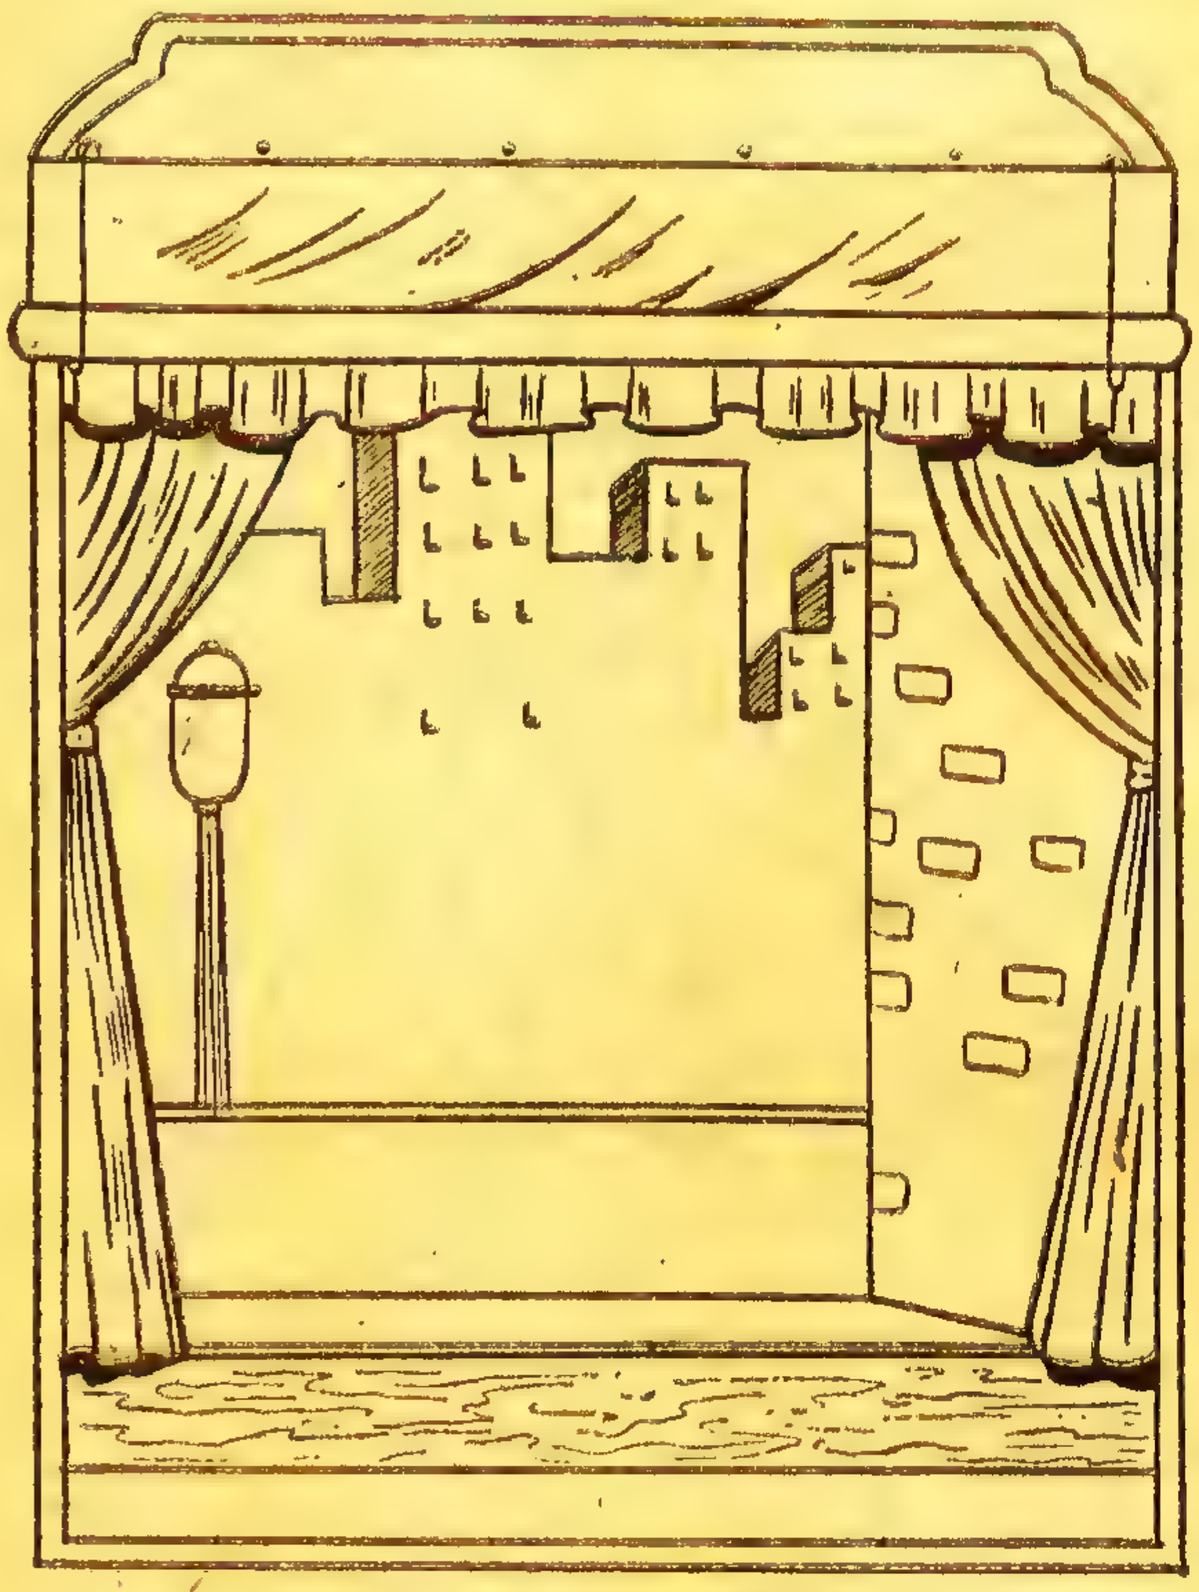
HOLIDAY GADGET PAGE

HEY, KIDS - - PUT YOUR FAVORITE COMIC BOOK CHARACTERS INTO ACTION ON YOUR OWN LITTLE STAGE. ACT OUT THE STORIES YOU ENJOY MOST! HERE'S HOW!



A WOODEN BOX ABOUT TWO FEET SQUARE IS NEEDED. REMOVE THE TOP AND BOTTOM OF THE BOX SO THAT ONLY THE FOUR SIDES OF THE FRAME REMAIN. FROM THIS WOOD BUILD A PLATFORM FOUR INCHES HIGH AND SIX INCHES WIDE. THESE SHOULD BE FASTENED WITH SMALL NAILS.

FASTEN STAGE TO FRAME WITH SMALL NAILS.

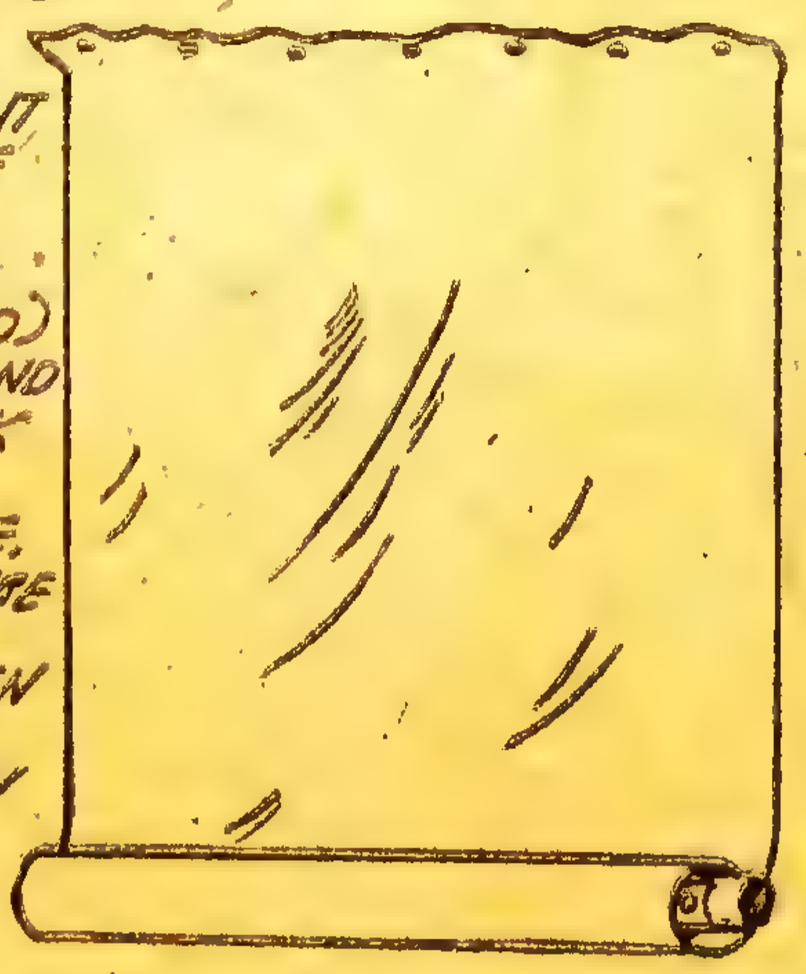
ASK MOM FOR A PIECE OF MUSLIN OR COLORED CLOTH TO COVER THE FRONT END OF BOX. TACK THE BOTTOM END TO A ROUND STICK (AN OLD BROOM HANDLE WILL DO) ALLOW CLOTH TO ROLL AROUND THE STICK ONCE, THEN TACK TO THE TOP END OF BOX, INSIDE, CLOSE TO THE EDGE. THIS WILL BE YOUR THEATRE CURTAIN. IF YOU USE WHITE CLOTH YOU MAY EVEN DECORATE THE CURTAIN BY DRAWING ON IT WITH WAX CRAYON.



AT EACH END OF THE TOP OF YOUR THEATRE TACK TWO STAPLES TO ACT AS GUIDES FOR YOUR ROLL CORDS.

Jack Frost's Chimes

JOHNNY BEAR walked out of the forest theatre feeling very low. There was to be a big show complete with entertainment and music and he, Johnny, wouldn't be able to take part because he had no particular talent. Corny Caterpillar was inching along beside his cumbersome friend, being careful to stay away from Johnny's big feet.

"Gosh, Johnny, I'm sorry you won't be in the show."

"I'm the one who's sorry, Corny," Johnny sniffled. "I know I can't dance the way you can, nor sing like Jenny Nightingale, but if I had an instrument, I could play in the orchestra."

"Let's find you an instrument then," Corny said.

The two walked along and suddenly Corny saw a violin sticking out of some bushes. "Oh," he cried, "the very thing." He started to pick the violin up when Lippity Cricket poked his head out of the bushes and shouted. "Just a minute! That's mine, Corny Caterpillar, and even if I wanted to lend you my violin, I couldn't. Violins are attached to crickets, as anyone with any sense knows."

"I know too!" Corny cried. "It's just that I wanted a musical instrument for my friend Johnny."

And Johnny and Corny walked away. Just above the bear's cave there was a woodland pool and the friends sat down here to listen to a frog quartet busily rehearsing. They listened until the sun went down and the night turned cold.

"It's awfully early in the season," Johnny remarked as he lumbered to his feet, "but isn't it chilly?"

"Brrrrr, that it is," Corny shivered. "Smells like snow. Well, good night, Johnny, and cheer up. Maybe we'll be able to find an instrument for you in the morning."

"Thanks, Corny, but I expect it's no use." And the bear walked sadly to his cave which was a few feet down the hill.

As Corny watched his friend enter the cave an idea suddenly came to him. "Hmm, the pool—the cold air—well, well." And he started to grin as he got busy. With the help of the bullfrogs Corny began pouring water downhill. The water dripped off the ledge for some time, then, satisfied with his handiwork, he hurried to his own home for the night.

But bright and early next morning he raced to Johnny's house and called, "Hurry out, Sleepyhead, I've got an instrument for you to play."

Never did a bear get out of a cave faster than Johnny. When he got outdoors what should appear to his wondering eyes but a set of chimes hanging from the ledge. They weren't ordinary chimes made of tubes of metal, oh, no, they were made of icicles of all thicknesses and lengths and when Corny gave Johnny a stick and when Johnny struck the stick against the icicles they rang out more tunefully than any chimes you've heard before or since.

Johnny hurried to the forest theatre with Corny right behind him and the bear was immediately allowed to play in the orchestra. Everyone who heard him said he was the hit of the show.

"You're the real hit, Corny," Johnny said to his friend after the show. "You made a hit with me giving me that fine instrument to play on."

"Thanks, Johnny, but it really wasn't my doing. If Jack Frost hadn't been around to freeze the water you wouldn't have had the chimes at all. You really ought to thank him."

"If I ever see him," Johnny laughed, "I certainly will."

CRASH! BANG! WHOP BOOM! WHAM! SOCK! BIFF!

OH! THE TERRIBLE NOISE ON THIS PAGE- MY HEAD IS SPLITTING! HOW ABOUT YOURS??

OH- I'M O.K.- SEE?

If there was anything that Rusty Red the Rooster loved, it was the circus. The color, the excitement, the trapeze artists, and most especially, the comical clowns made Rusty a real fan. So it was an eager Rusty who was making his way to the colorful circus grounds, one warm spring morning!

His heart skipped a beat as he caught sight of the big tent, and he quickened his pace as he hurried toward the long line of ticket purchasers. Now, the ordinary person would have been happy to wait his turn on the line, but not Rusty! Doing things wrong came more naturally with him. He had to do things the hard way.

Approaching the line, his eyes had caught sight of the flapping tents.

"Why should I pay my way in?" he thought to himself. "I can slip under the tent for nothing. Then I could use my money for more peanuts and lemonade." He looked pityingly at the long line of spectators.

"What suckers they are!" he thought to himself.

Now it became a simple matter of finding a suitable spot along one of the main tents where he could slip in unobserved. It proved simpler than he had imagined. Off to the right was a wide expanse of tent and not a single person was around to observe his actions. Bending down quickly, Rusty slipped silently under the tent.

"Suckers!" he thought as he caught one last glance of the waiting spectators.

No sooner did Rusty get to his feet on the other side of the tent than he walked smack into a burly stranger.

"Pardon me," he said as he tried to slip past the stranger.

"Why soitanly, sir," said the stranger. "By de bye," he added, "have youse noticed dat spot there?" With that he pointed to the spot where Rusty had slipped into the tent. Rusty turned to look. Before he knew what happened he had been given a kick that sent him rolling right through the same spot.

As he sat on the ground in a dazed condition outside the tent, he could hear the man shouting:

"And don't ever let me catch you trying to come in here without a ticket. Smarter guys than you have tried it, but they never get past me!"

Rusty picked himself up and went slowly back to the line of waiting customers. Several people snickered at him and he was not comfortable again until he was safely inside the tent—with a ticket that he had bought!

Before going into the big show Rusty now decided to study the wild animals in their cages. He wandered from cage to cage observing first the elephants and then the wild and ferocious gorrillas. It was when he was approaching the cage of the lion that he made a startling discovery. In the back of the lion's cage was a little room. As Rusty passed by he saw a motion through the door. There to his great amazement he saw a man putting on a lion costume.

"Ah ha," thought Rusty. "So the lion is a phoney—and the lion tamer is really not the brave man he makes himself out to be. Well, I'm going to show him up before all the people who watch his act."

Of course there was no need for Rusty to do this, but he was like many people whom we all know. They take particular pleasure in minding other person's businesses. But like such people he had decided to act before he knew all the facts in the case. For the lion was a real lion and the man whom he had observed donning a lion's costume was in reality one of the clowns who was preparing himself for a comical act in the main arena. So it was an ingnorant Rusty who watched the lion-tamer begin his act.

"Ladies and gentlemen," began the lion-tamer, "I am about to show you how I can control the ferocious Leo, the scourge of the jungle. This is an art that I have acquired only after long and arduous years of dangerous study. There is not a man alive who can duplicate the feats I am about to perform. If there is anyone in the audience who feels that he, too, can tame the ferocious Leo, let him step up."

This was the point at which Rusty felt he could speak up. He was going to expose the lion-tamer in front of his big audience.

"I'll try it, sir," he said, and before the amazed lion-tamer could object he had stepped into the cage and had taken the whip from his hands. The audience gasped as Rusty advanced the snarling lion. Rusty smiled confidently. This was even more fun than he had counted on. Not only was he showing up the lion-tamer, but he was making the horrified audience think that he was possesed of rare bravery.

"If they only knew what a phoney act this is!" he thought to himself.

Meanwhile the enraged lion was advancing upon him. Crack, went Rusty's whip, but the lion did not stop.

"That lion skin must be thicker than I thought!" said Rusty to himself. "He'll feel this next one. Then we'll see if he feels like continuing his little disguise."

With this Rusty cracked the whip as hard as he could and waited for the lion to give up. But this second blow seemed to produce just the opposite effect. The lion ripped out with his sharp claws and caught Rusty on his exposed leg.

"Ouch!" shouted Rusty. "That guy isn't kidding." And once more he lifted the whip into the air. With this the lion emitted a terrible roar and sprang for Rusty in real earnest.

By this time Rusty realized that he was confronted with the real goods and he turned on his heels and began to run just ac fast as his legs would carry him. Out of the cage he went, followed by the indignant Leo. Around and around the tent they went until Rusty could scarely catch his breath. He finally saw the corridor to the main tent and began to run through it.

Emerging into the main arena he started to climb a tall rope ladder that loomed in front of him. This was the ladder that led to the tight-rope, sixty feet above the ground. Rusty did not stop until he was in the middle of the tight-rope high above the heads of the startled audience. By this time the lion-tamer had come along and had subdued the raging Leo.

Now Rusty realized that he had gotten himself into an even more precarious predicament. As he tried to work his way of the tight-rope he began to sway crazily to the great delight of the audience who thought that he was part of the big show. Finally he could keep his balance no longer and with a scream he lost his footing and down he went.

Down and down he went till he thought he must have fallen several miles, but it only seemed that way for when he opened his eyes he could see that he was falling directly into the mouth of the cannon that was used by "The Human Rocket" in his act.

Into the gaping mouth of the cannon he went. His momentum had set off the charge and in an instant he found he was going rapidly in another direction right out of the mouth of the cannon.

Thru the big top he went. Over the countryside he flew and he wouldn't have stopped if he hadn't finally hit the base of a large tree. There he came to a stop with a thud and landed in a sitting position with a dazed expression on his face.

It was in this position that his friend, Bobby Birchwood, found him a few moments later

"Hello, Rusty," said Bobby, "I'm on my way to the circus. How would you like to come along?"

Hearing these words, Rusty sat bolt upright and started to run toward the horizon in a cloud of dust.

Bobby scratched his head.

"Rusty sure has been acting queerly of late!" he said to himself as he started to walk toward the circus.

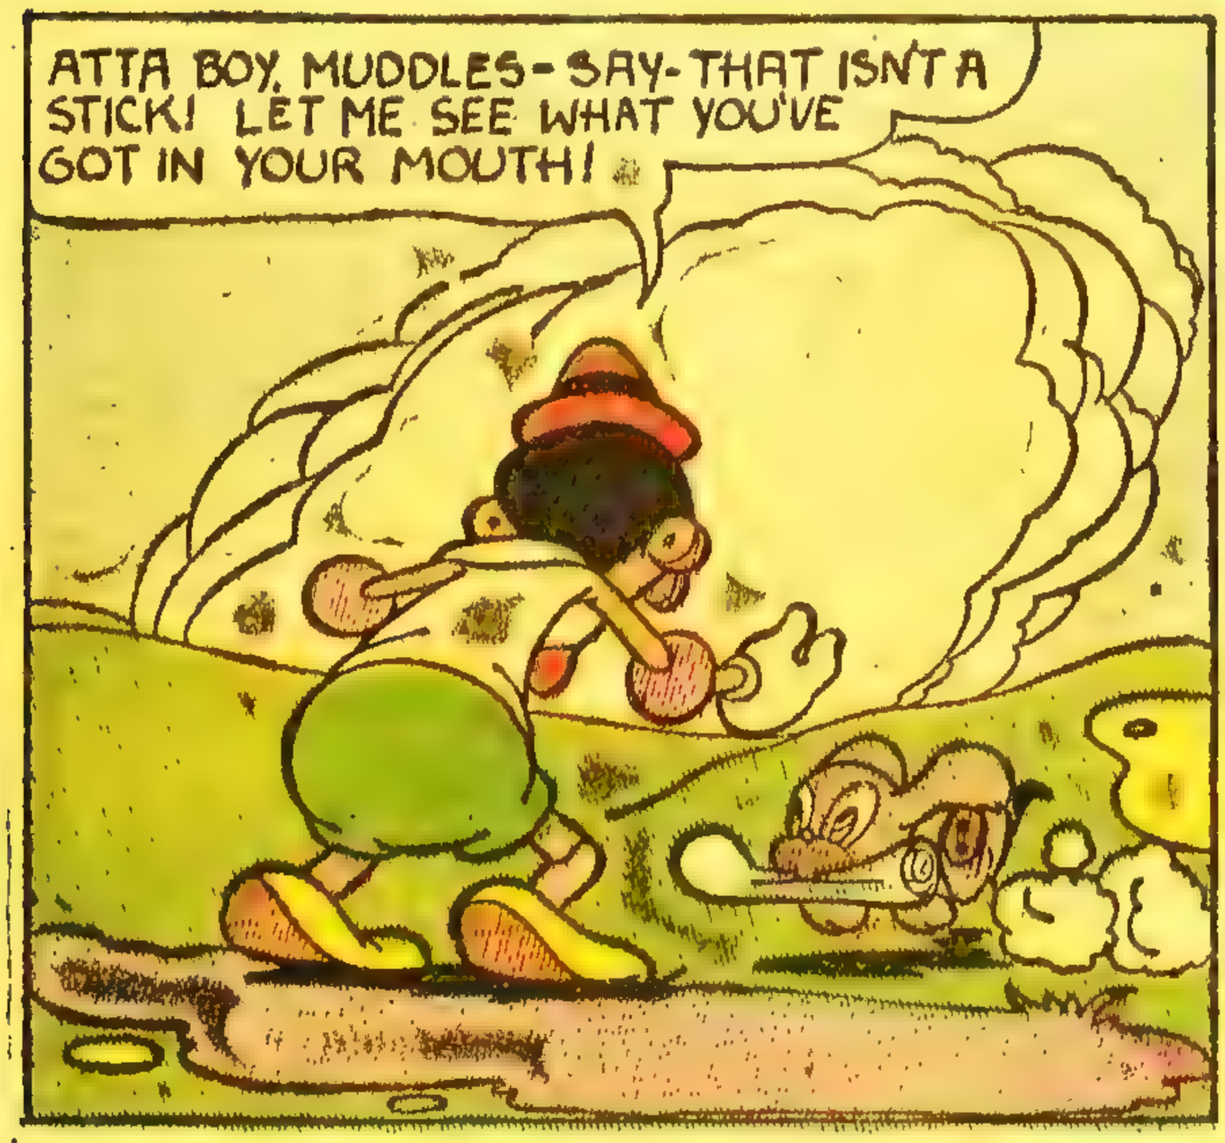
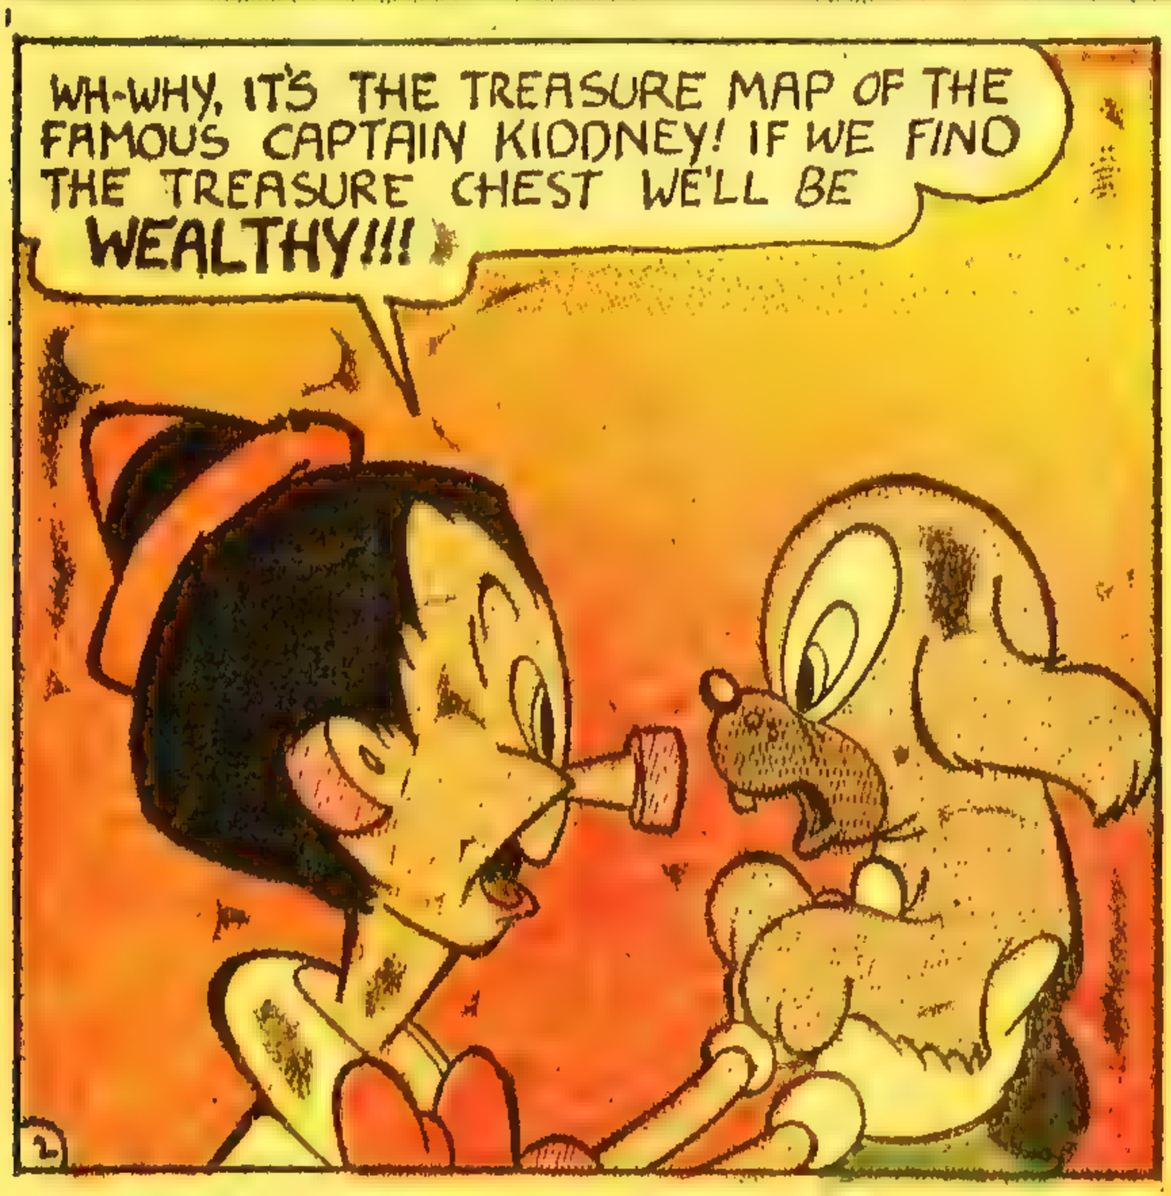
HURRY UP, MUDDLES!! BRING THAT STICK BACK TO ME!



ATTA BOY, MUDDLES - SAY - THAT ISN'T A STICK! LET ME SEE WHAT YOU'VE GOT IN YOUR MOUTH!

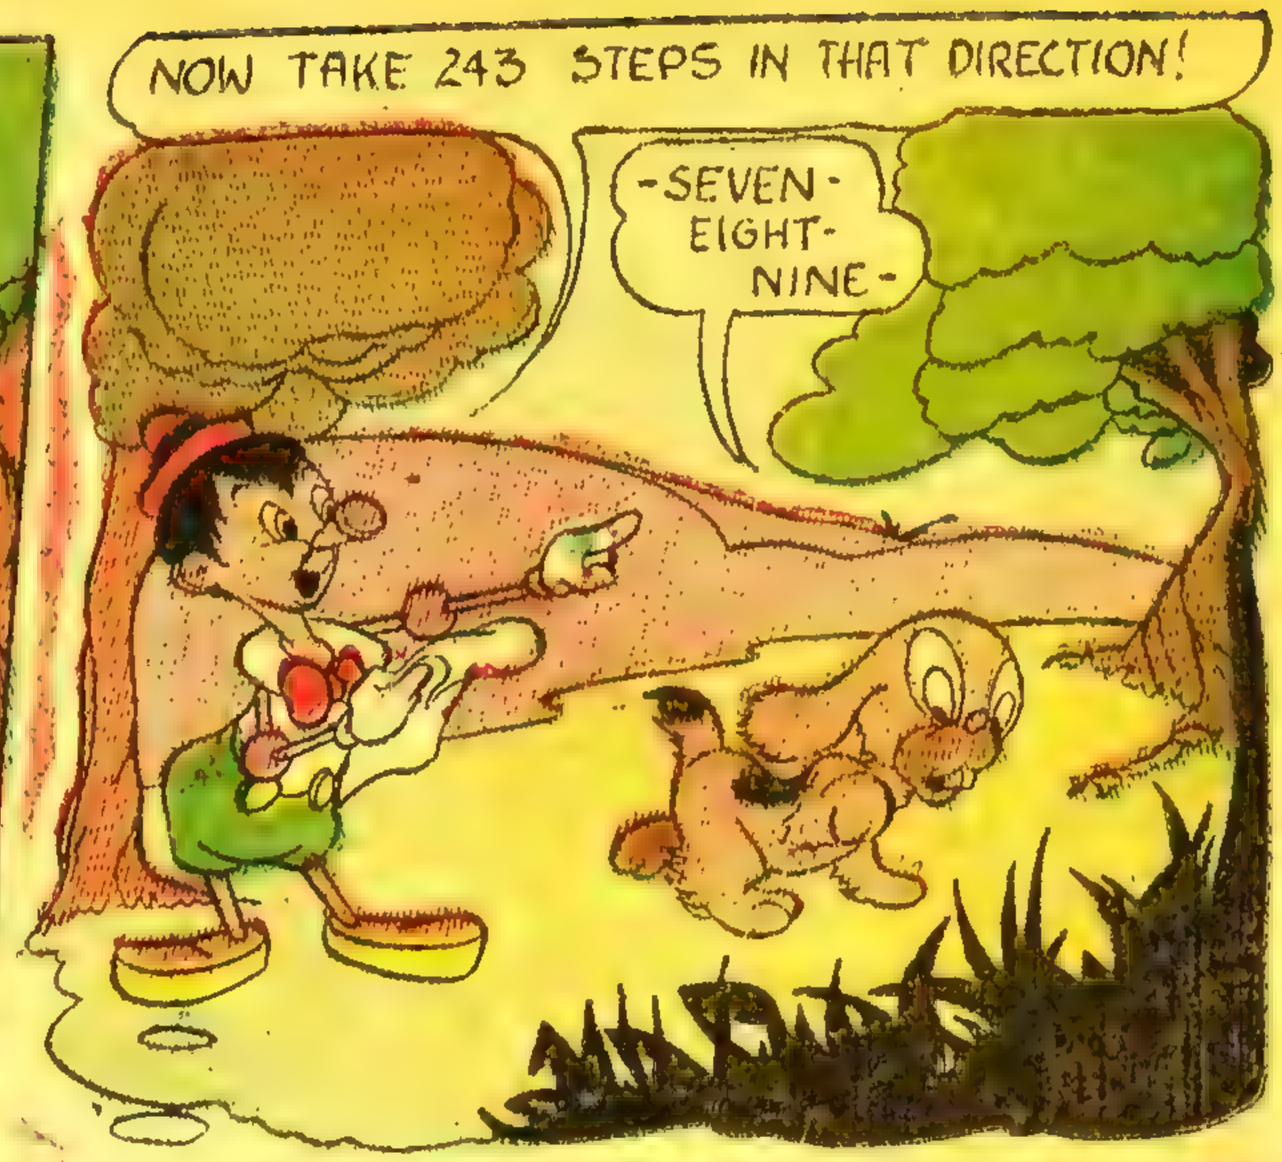
He WHO FINDS YE TREASURE CHEST WILL FIND THEREIN THE TREASURE THAT WAS ALWAYS CLOSEST TO MY HEARTE ..
Capt Kiddney



WH-WHY, IT'S THE TREASURE MAP OF THE FAMOUS CAPTAIN KIDDNEY! IF WE FIND THE TREASURE CHEST WE'LL BE WEALTHY!!!

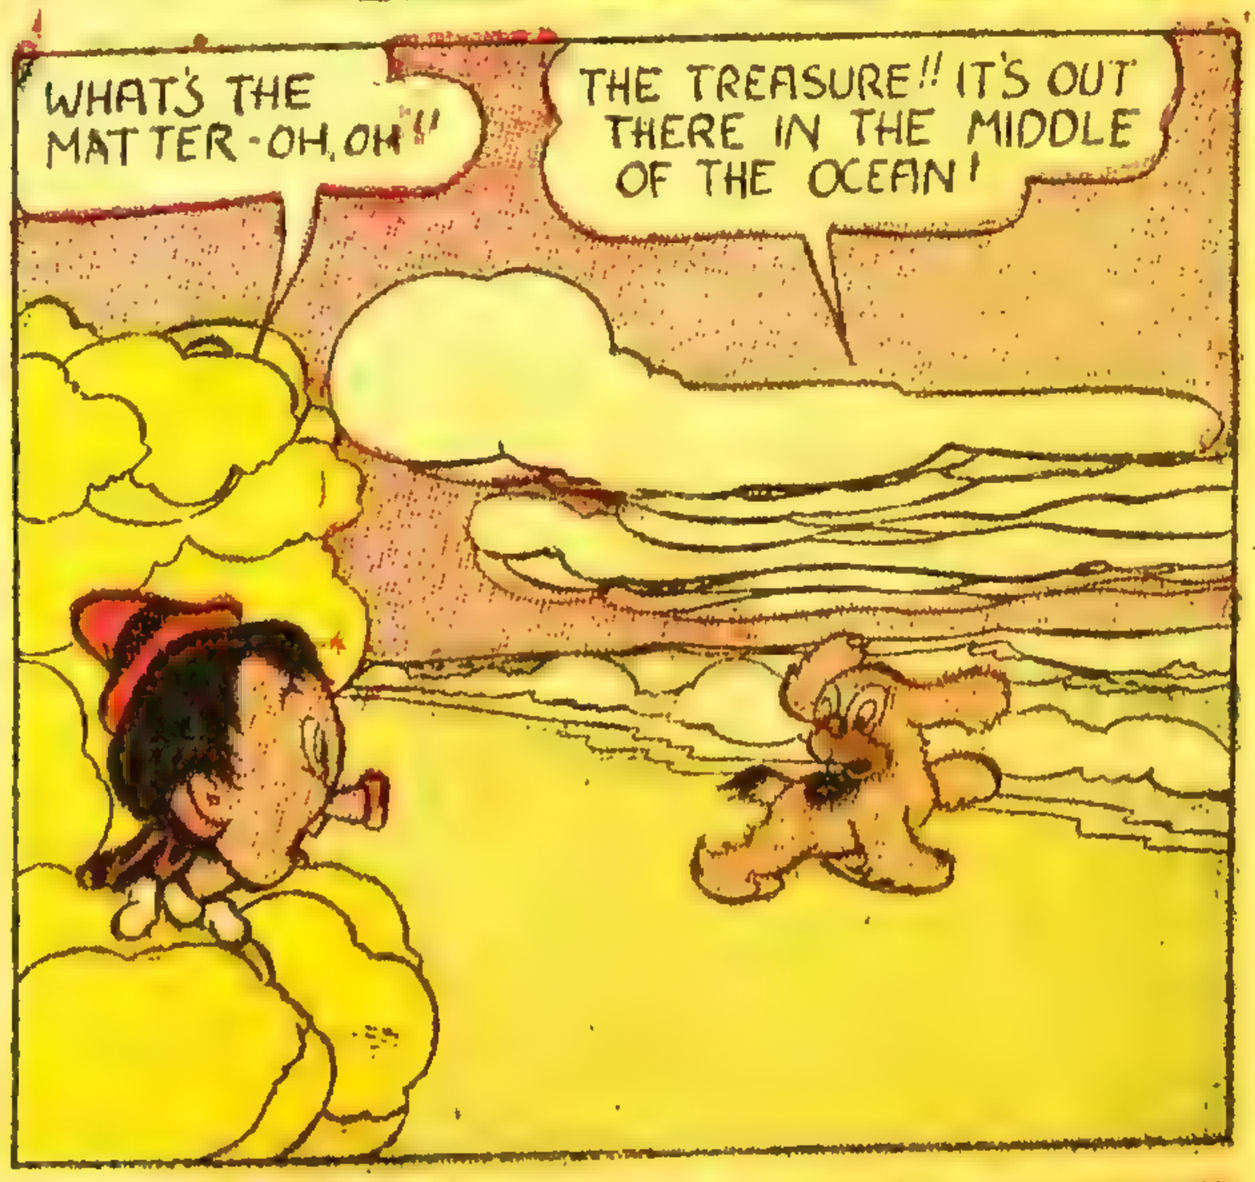
FIRST WE HAVE TO FIND THE OLD OAK TREE, LIKE THE MAP SAYS!
I HOPE WE DIG UP SOME OLD BONES!!

THAT'S IT! THAT'S IT! THE OLD OAK!!! WE'RE GETTING CLOSER TO THE TREASURE!!
WHY SHOULD YOU GET SO EXCITED ABOUT A TREE?



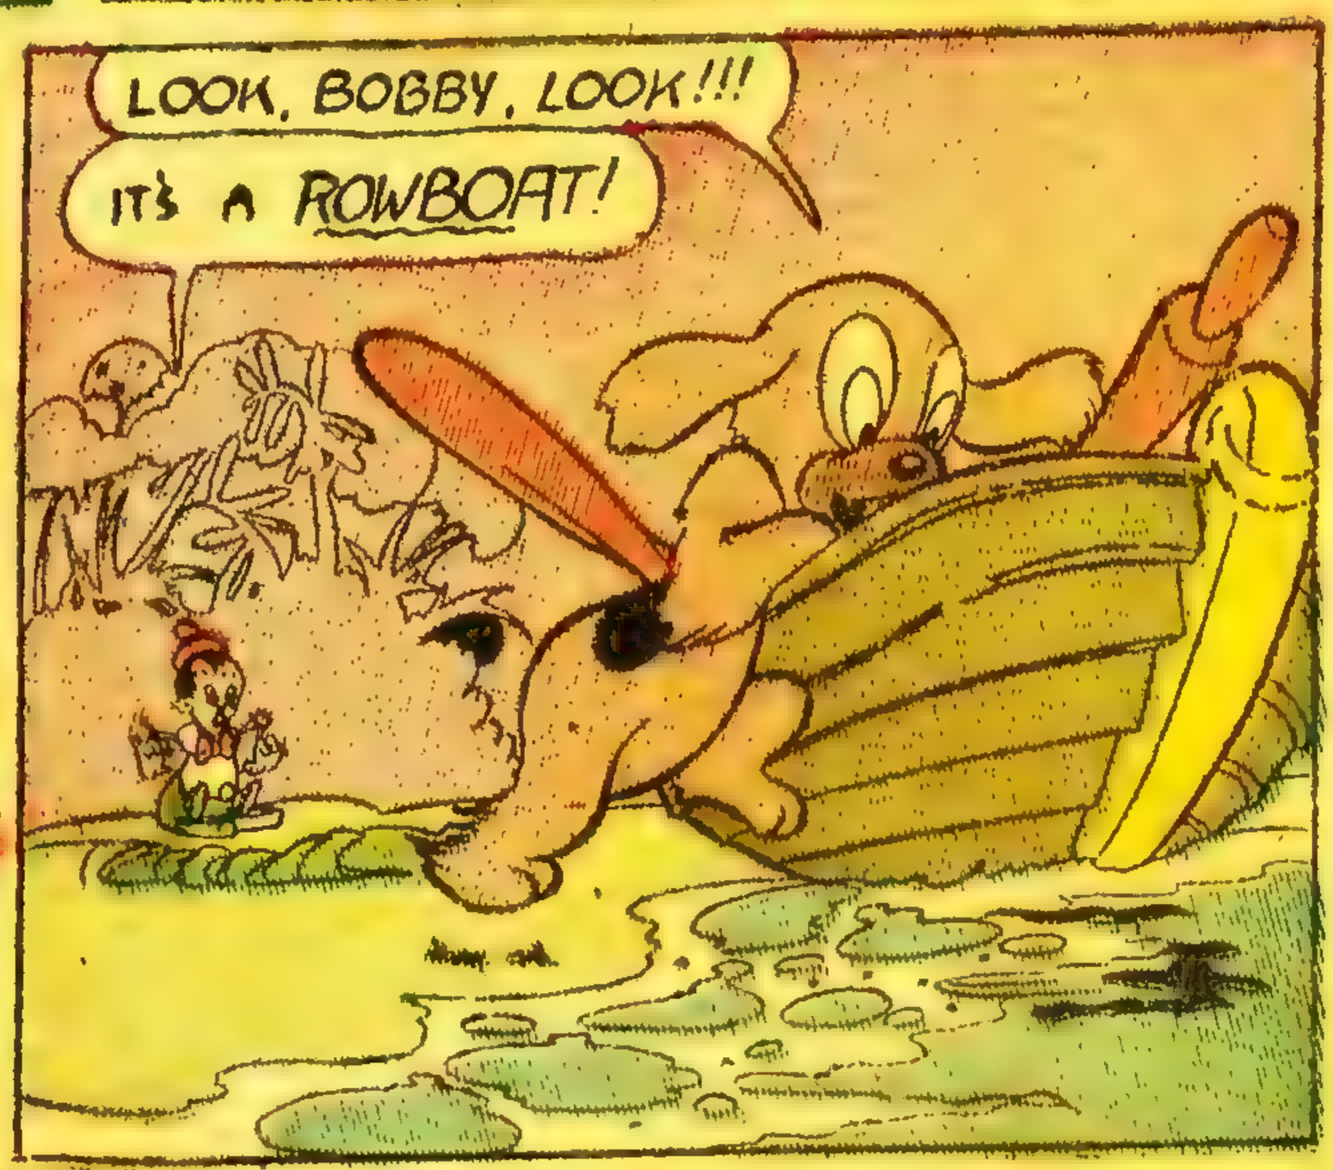
NOW TAKE 243 STEPS IN THAT DIRECTION!
-SEVEN-EIGHT-NINE-

ARE YOU THERE YET?!
THERE'S A COMPLICATION!



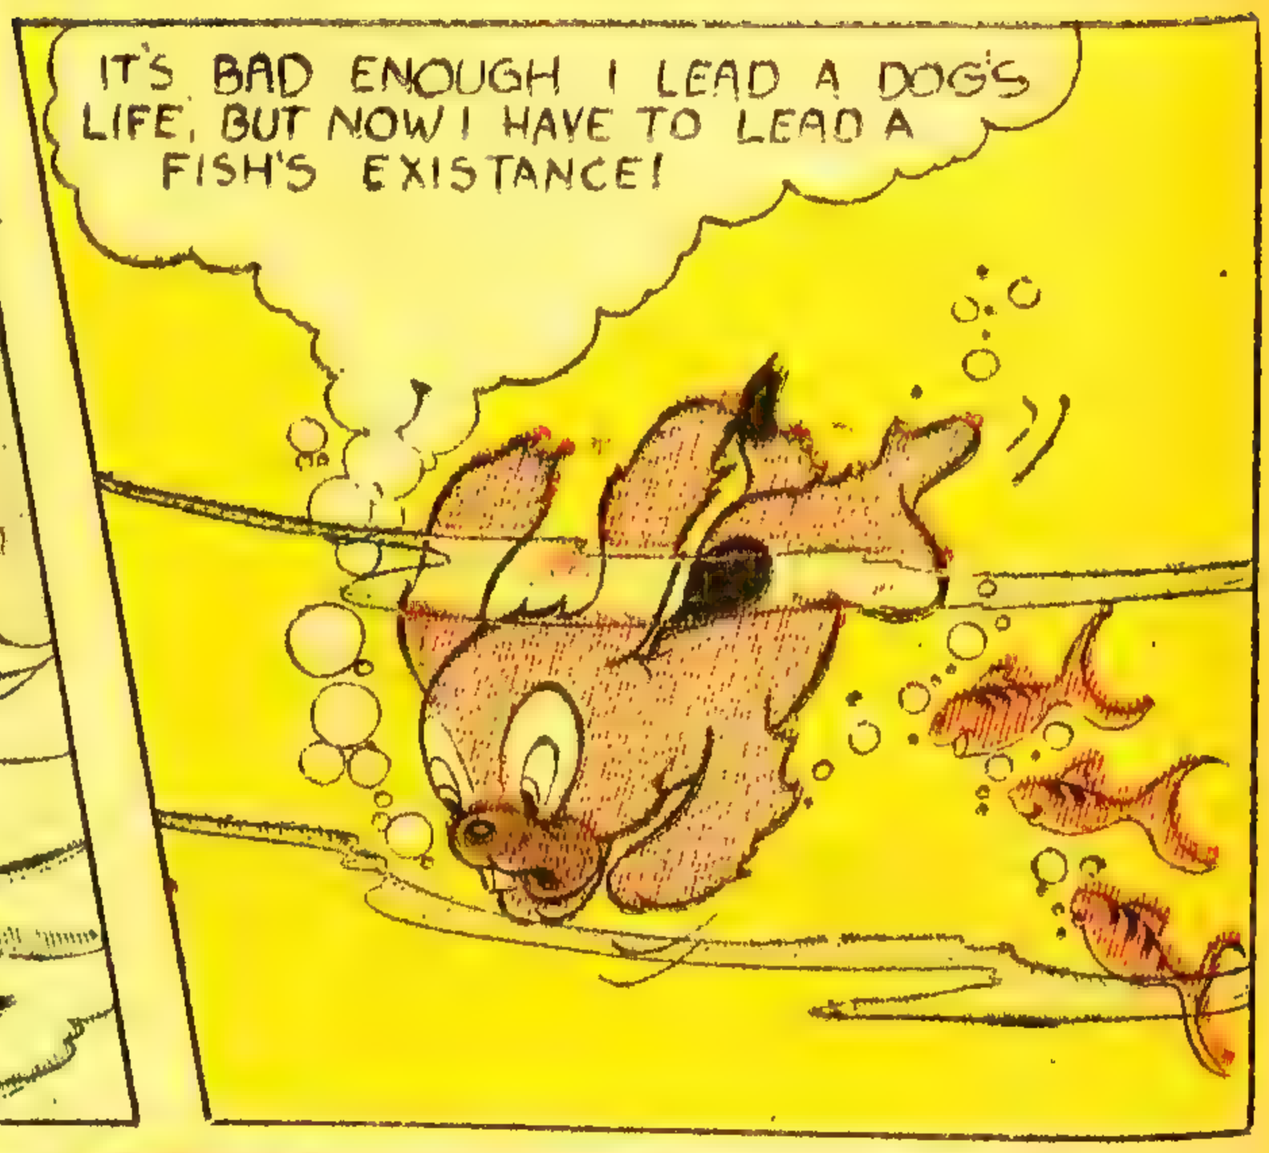
WHAT'S THE MATTER-OH, OH!!
THE TREASURE!! IT'S OUT THERE IN THE MIDDLE OF THE OCEAN!

NO TREASURE!!
NO BONES!

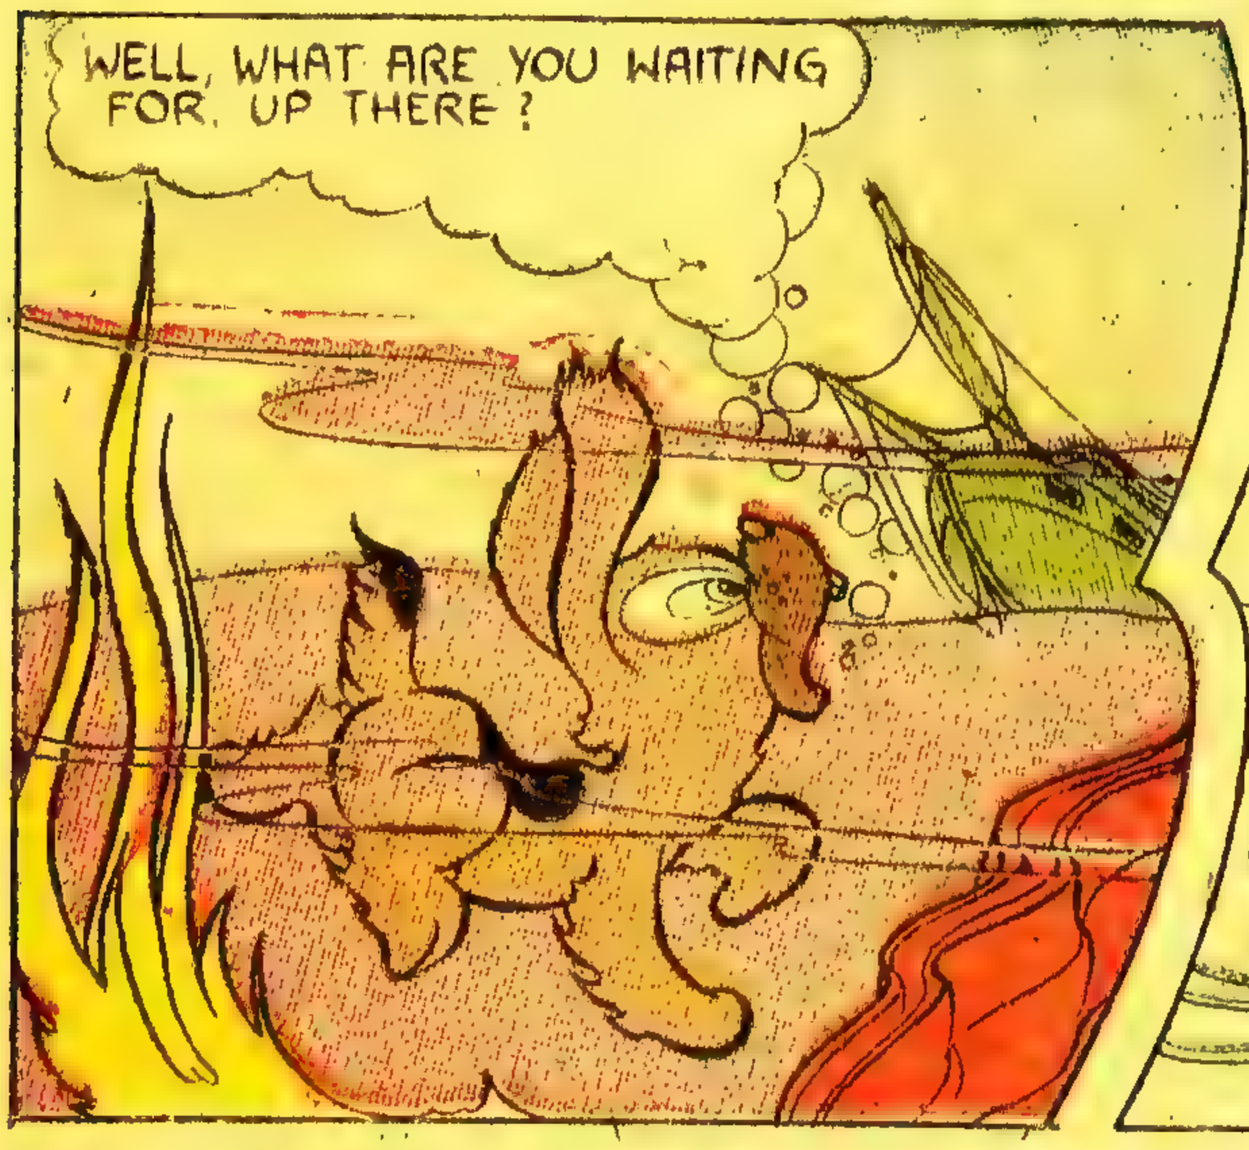


LOOK, BOBBY, LOOK!!!
IT'S A ROWBOAT!

THIS IS THE SPOT! YOU GO FIRST. TAKE A DEEP BREATH AND DIVE!
BR-R-R- WHY ME FIRST?



IT'S BAD ENOUGH I LEAD A DOG'S LIFE, BUT NOW I HAVE TO LEAD A FISH'S EXISTANCE!



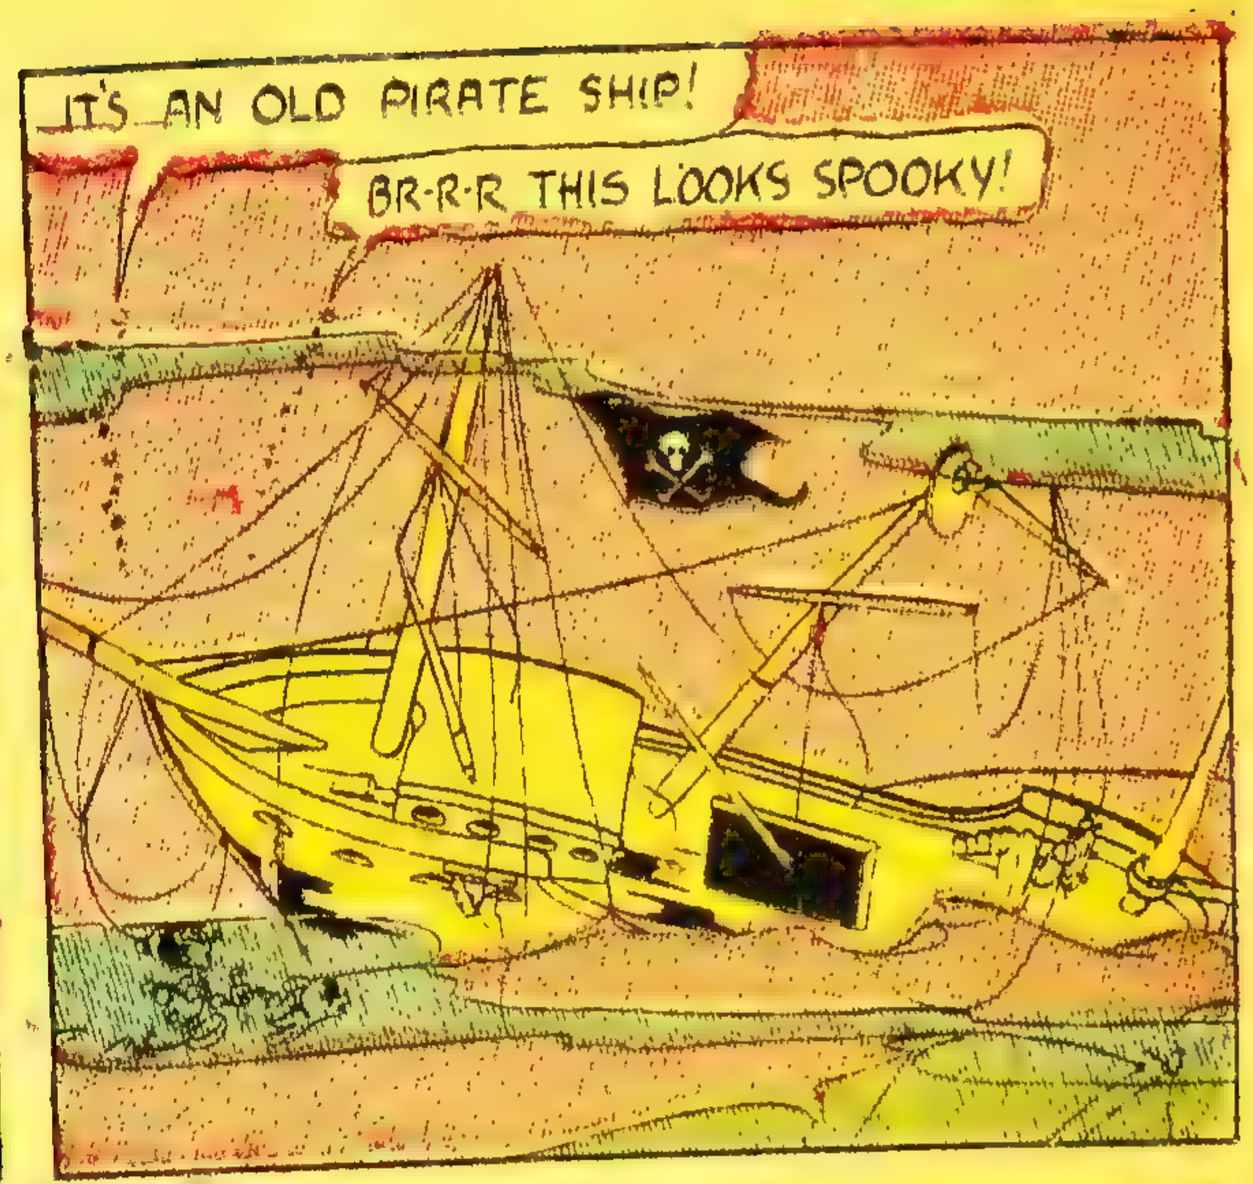
WELL, WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR, UP THERE?

I CAN'T GET UNDER WATER! I'M MADE OF WOOD AND I FLOAT!!

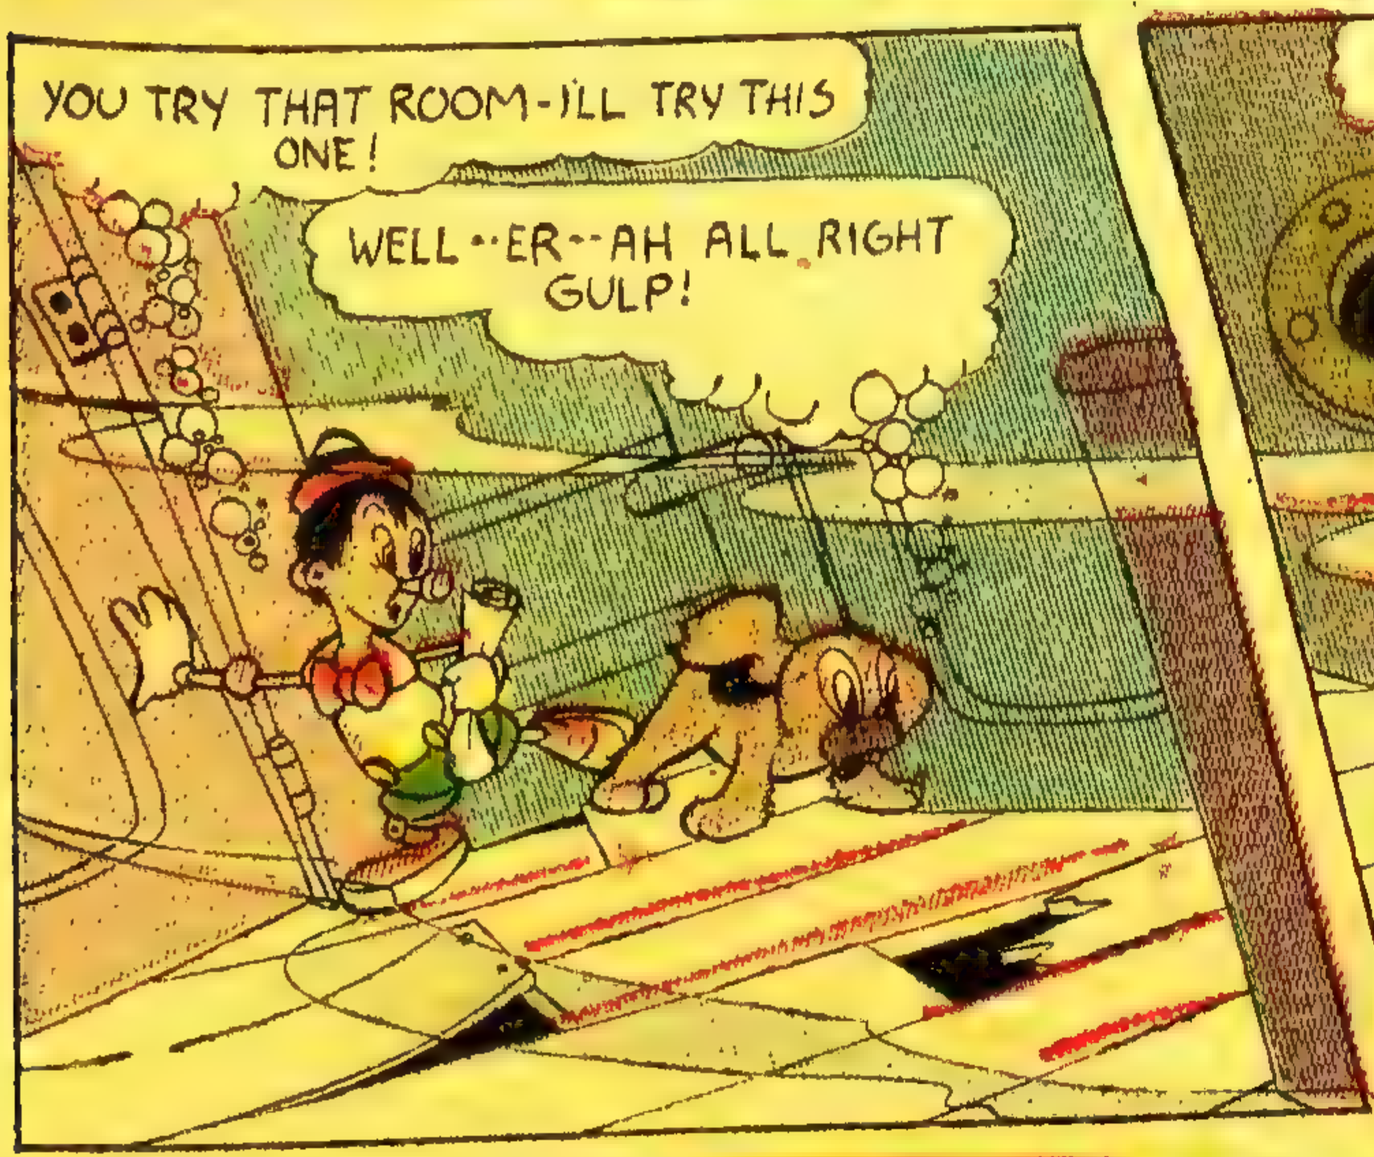
I HAVE TO THINK OF EVERYTHING! WHY DON'T YOU -GLUB-GLUB--.

THANKS, MUDDLES! I WOULD NEVER HAVE THOUGHT OF THIS MYSELF!
HOW COULD YOU WITH A WOODEN HEAD!!

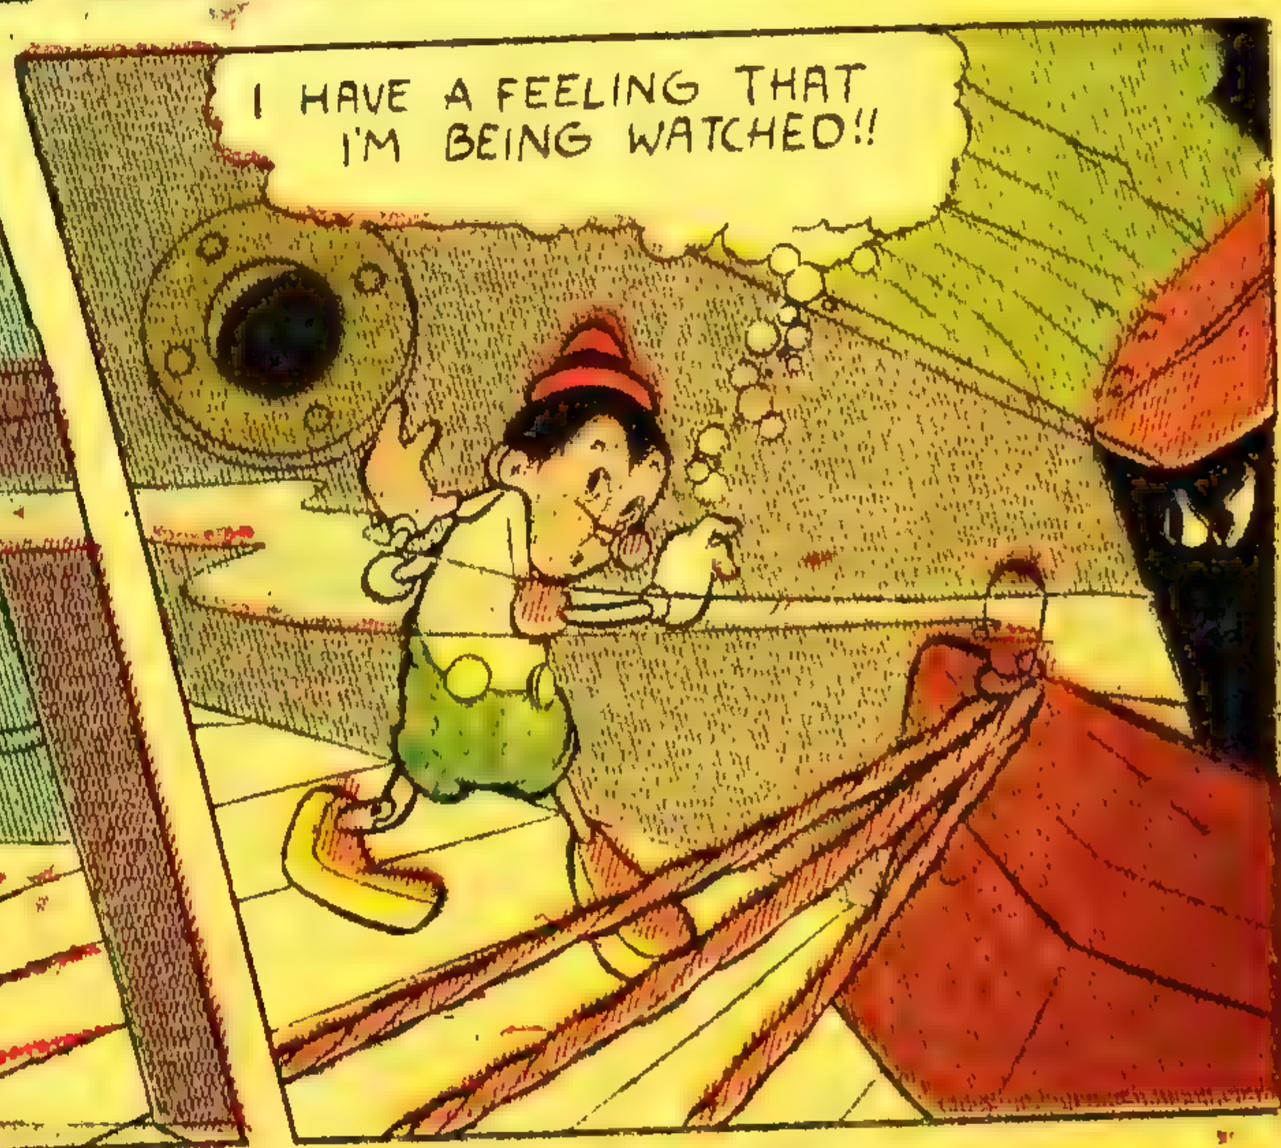
TWENTY MORE PACES TO GO!
LOOK!



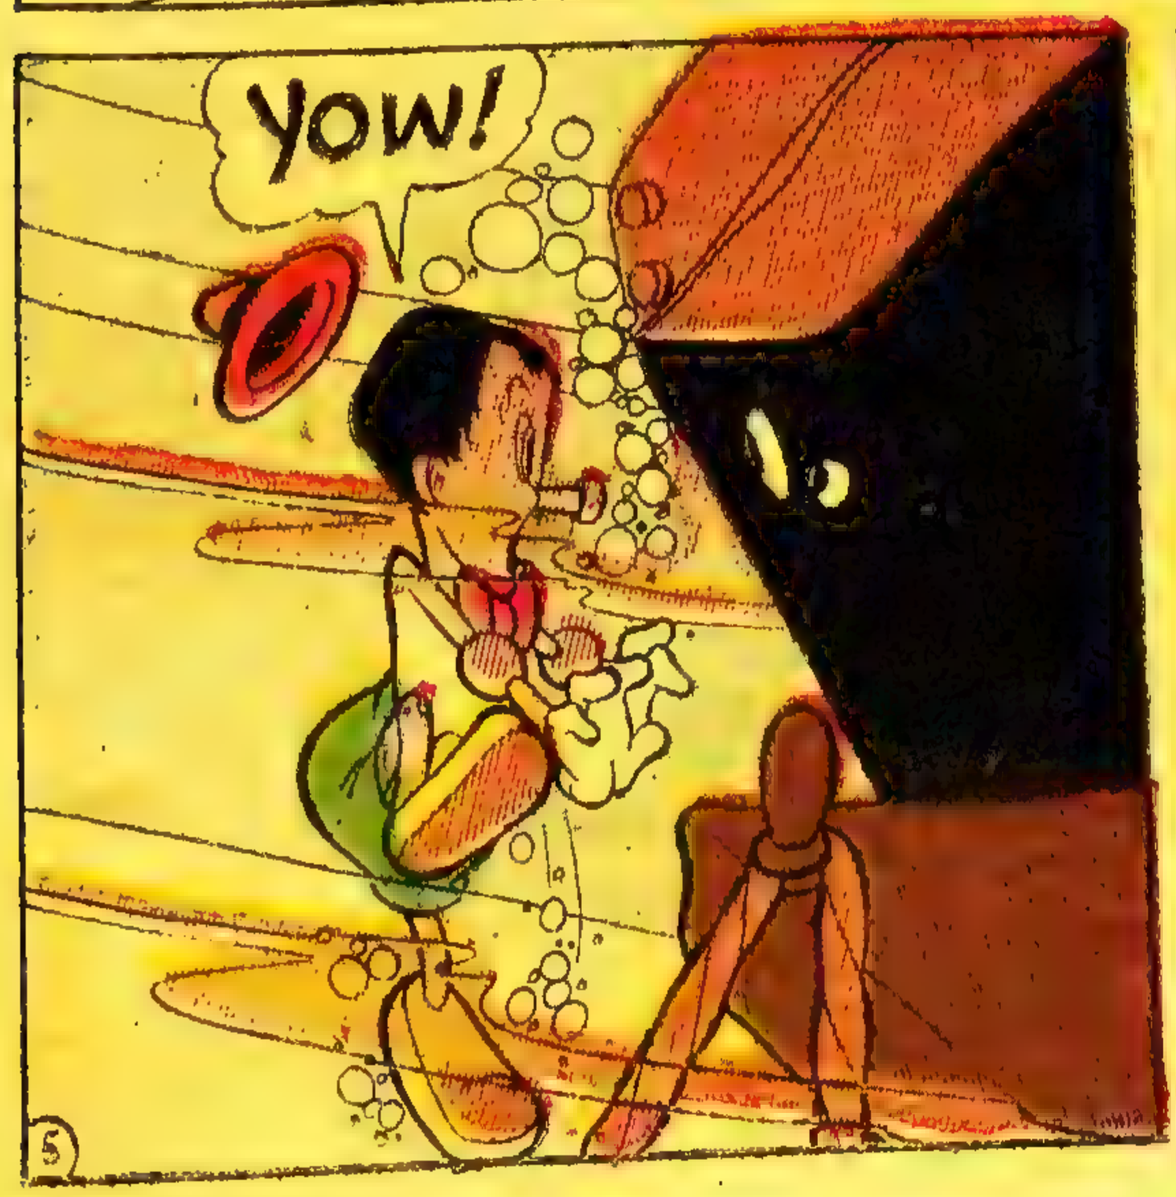
IT'S AN OLD PIRATE SHIP!
BR-R-R THIS LOOKS SPOOKY!



YOU TRY THAT ROOM-I'LL TRY THIS ONE!
WELL--ER--AH ALL RIGHT GULP!

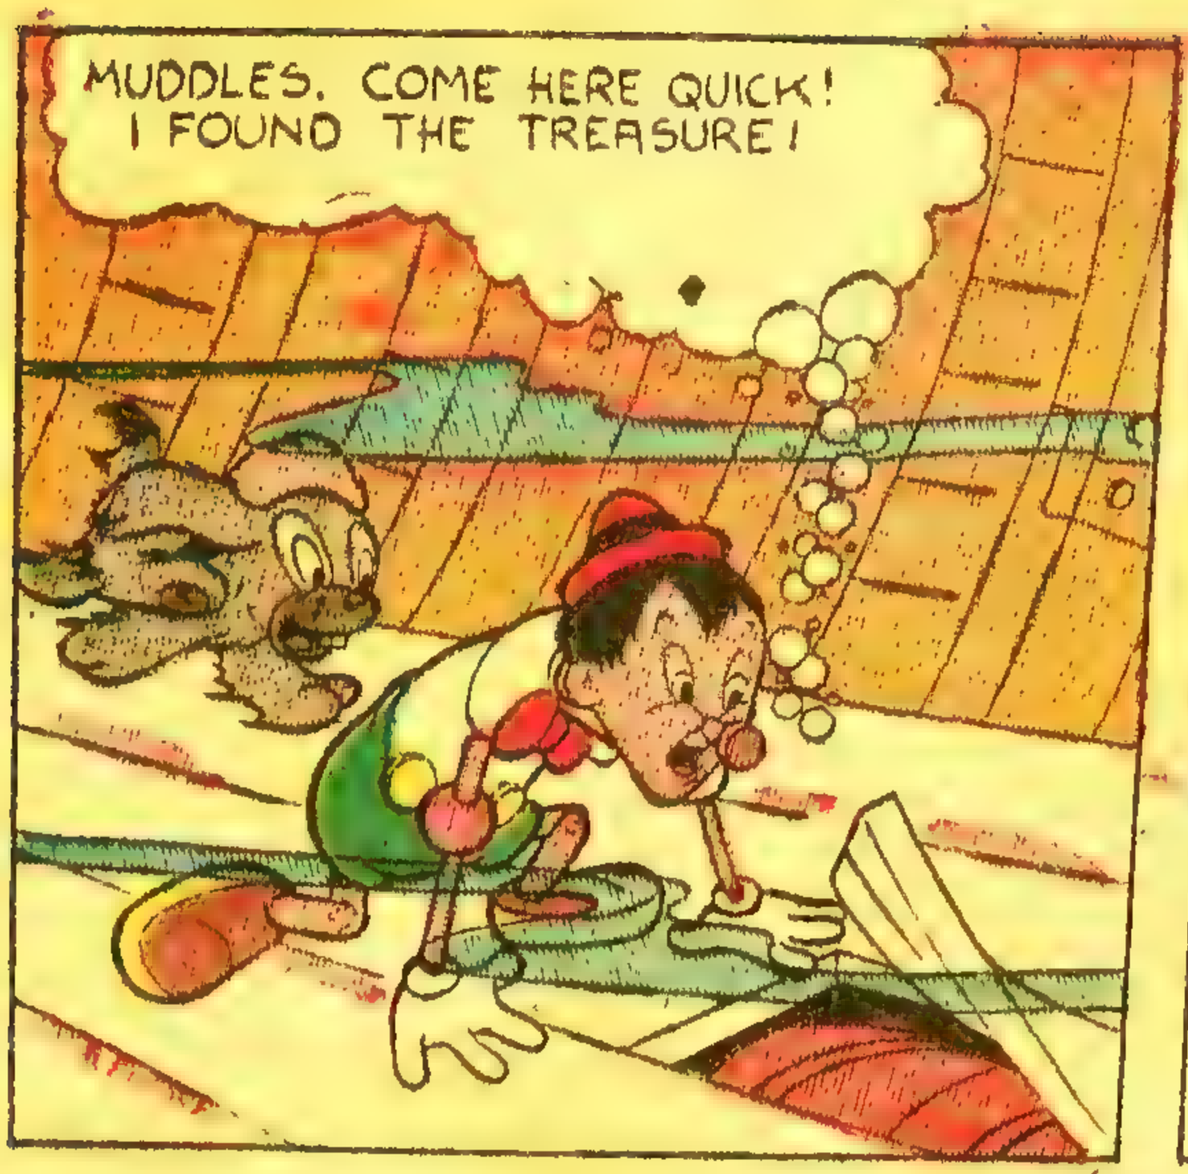


I HAVE A FEELING THAT I'M BEING WATCHED!!

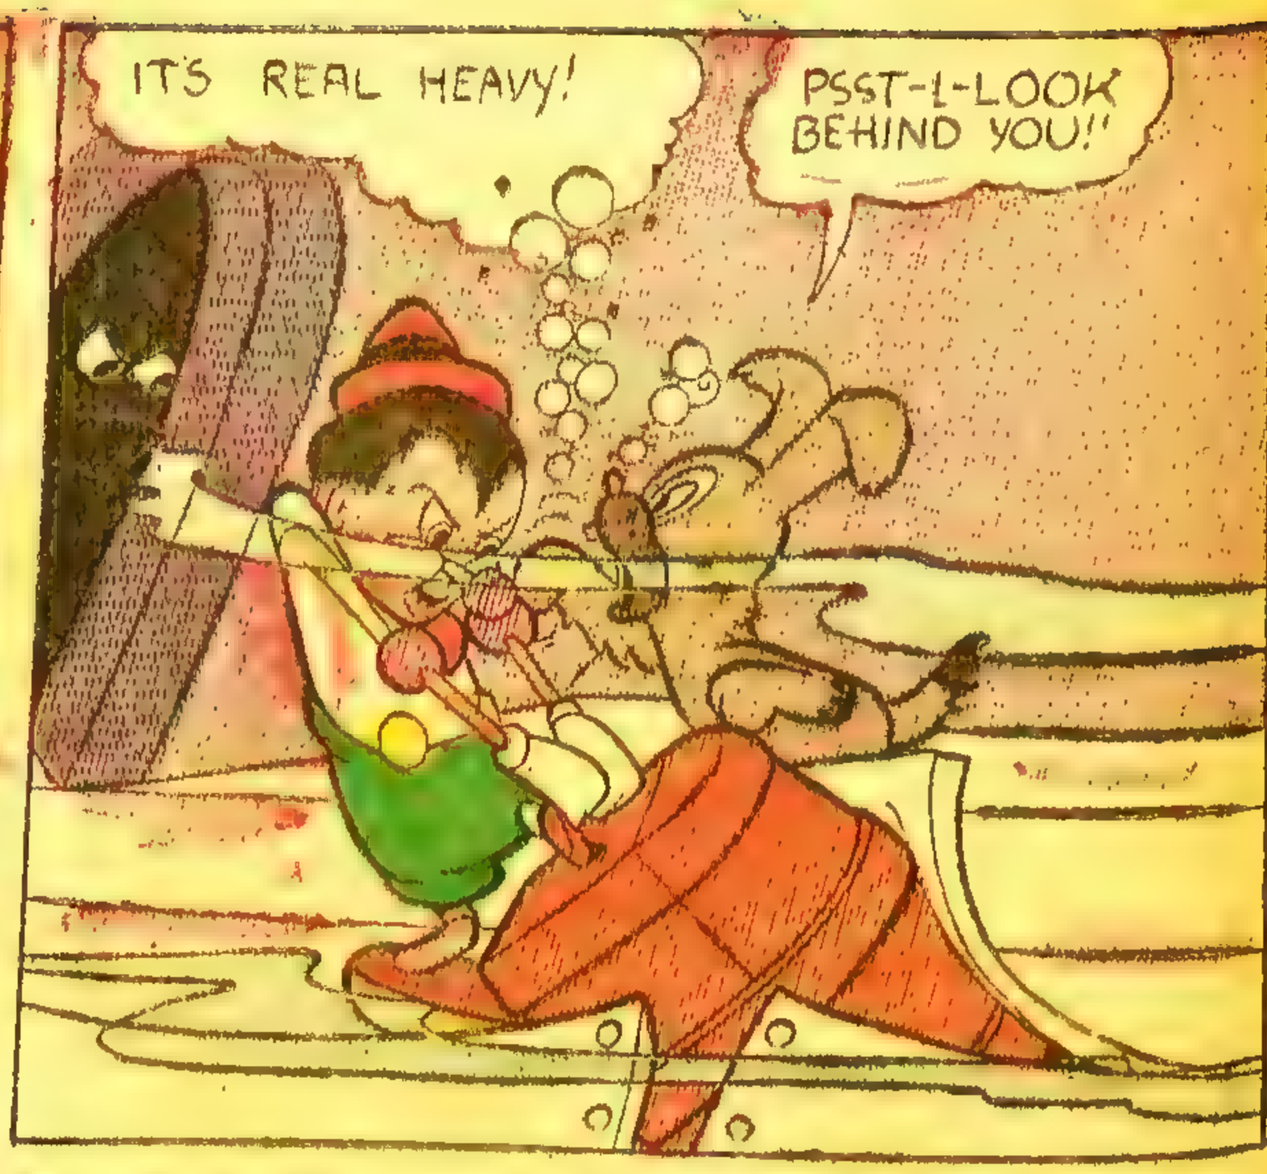


Yow!

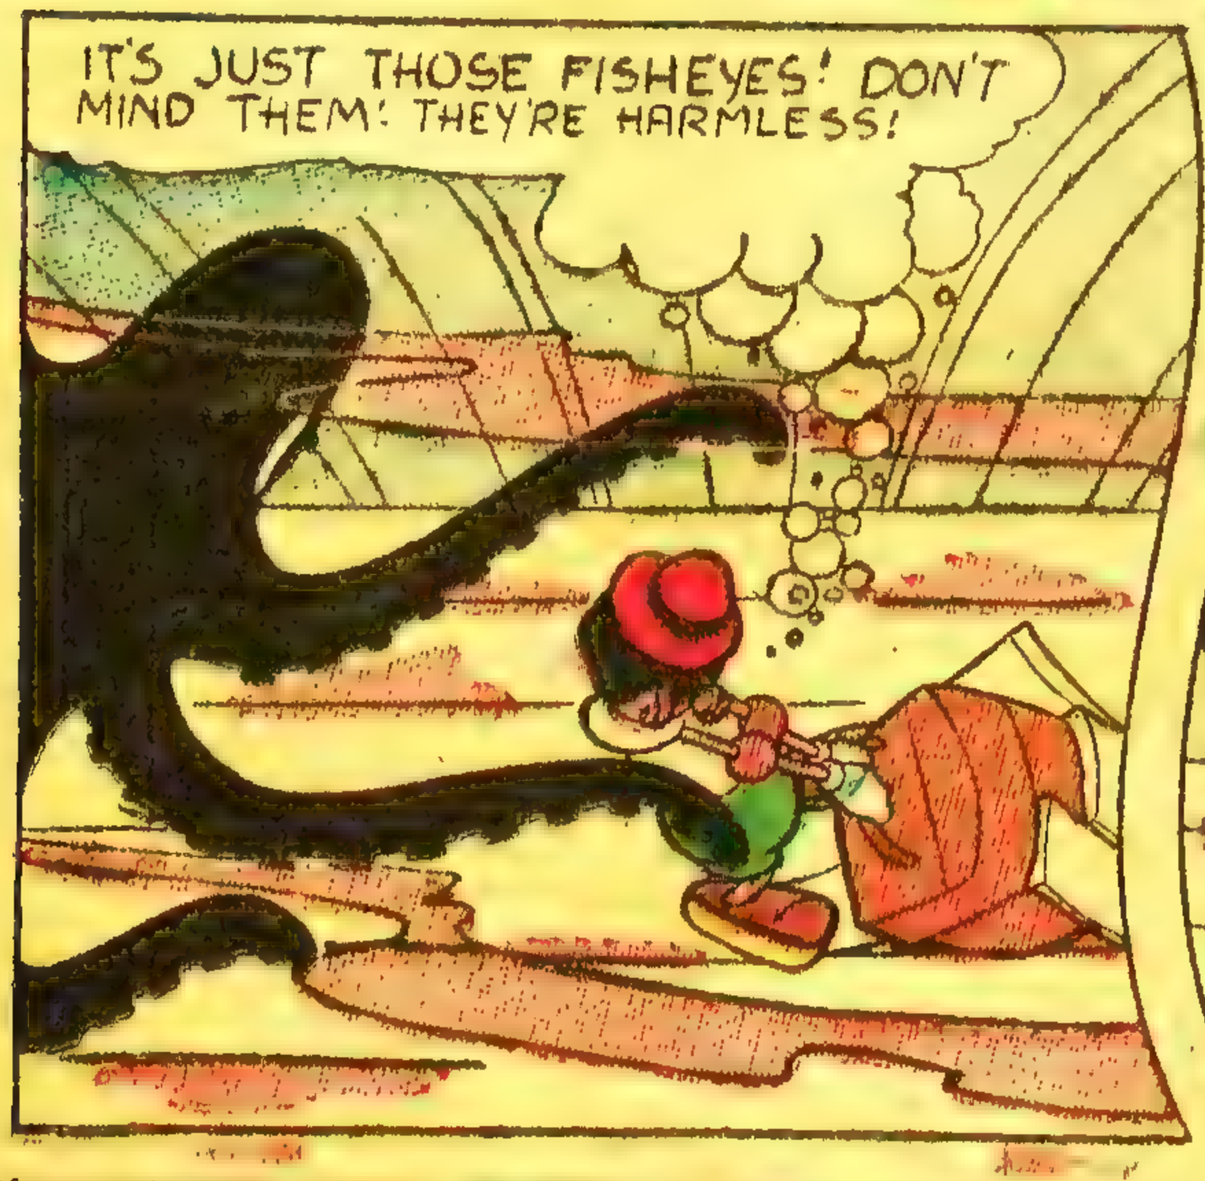
WHEW! ITS ONLY TWO LITTLE FISHES!!



MUDDLES, COME HERE QUICK! I FOUND THE TREASURE!

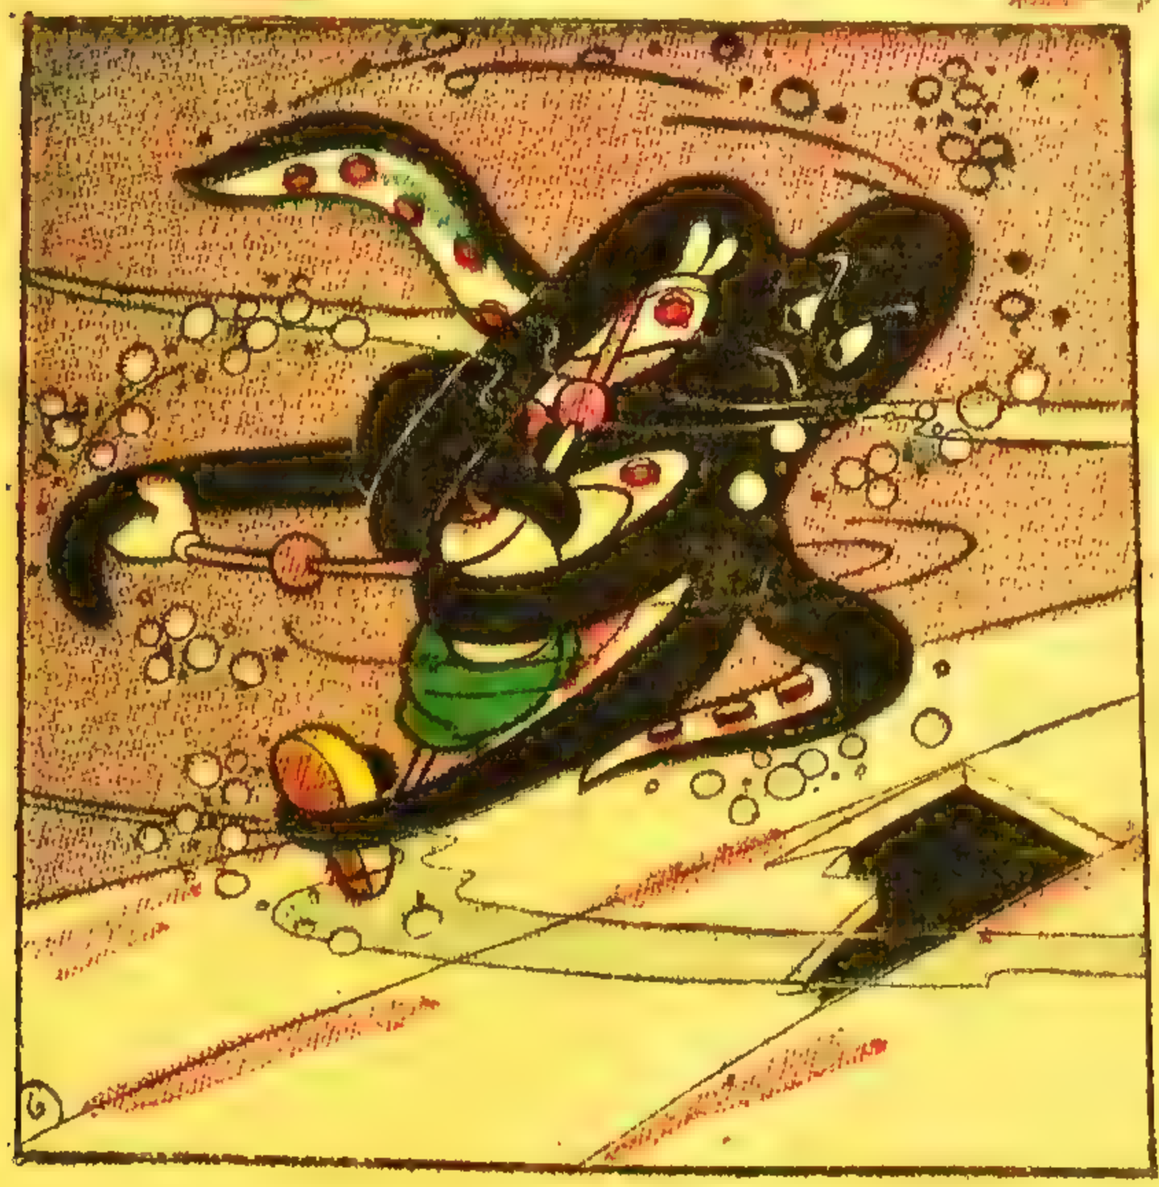


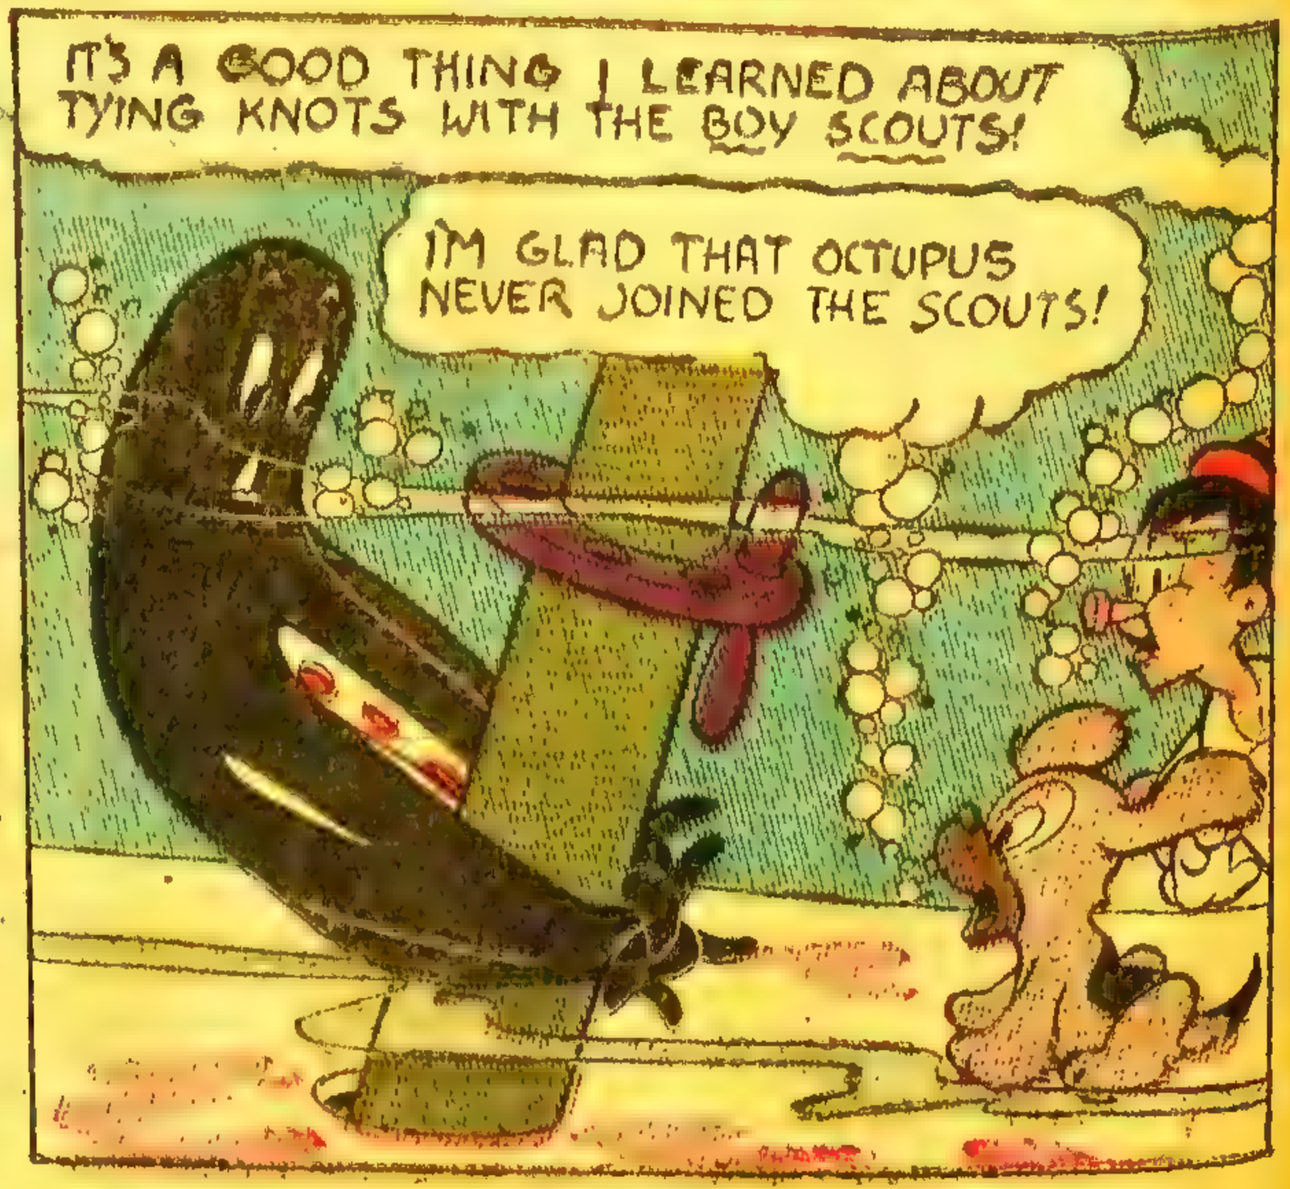
IT'S REAL HEAVY!
PSST-L-LOOK BEHIND YOU!!



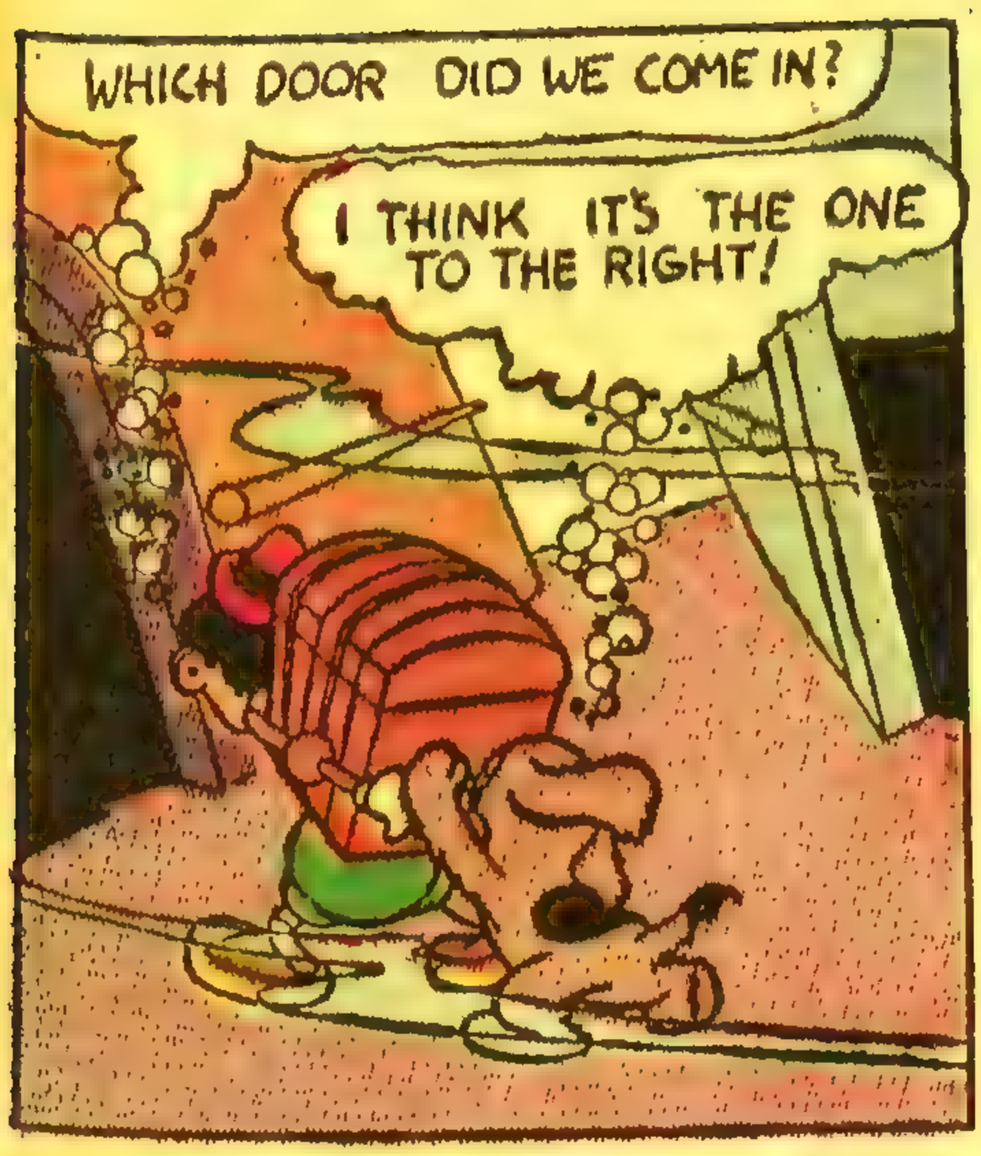
IT'S JUST THOSE FISHEYES! DON'T MIND THEM! THEY'RE HARMLESS!

THEY DON'T LOOK HARMLESS TO ME!
HEY!! LEGGO!!

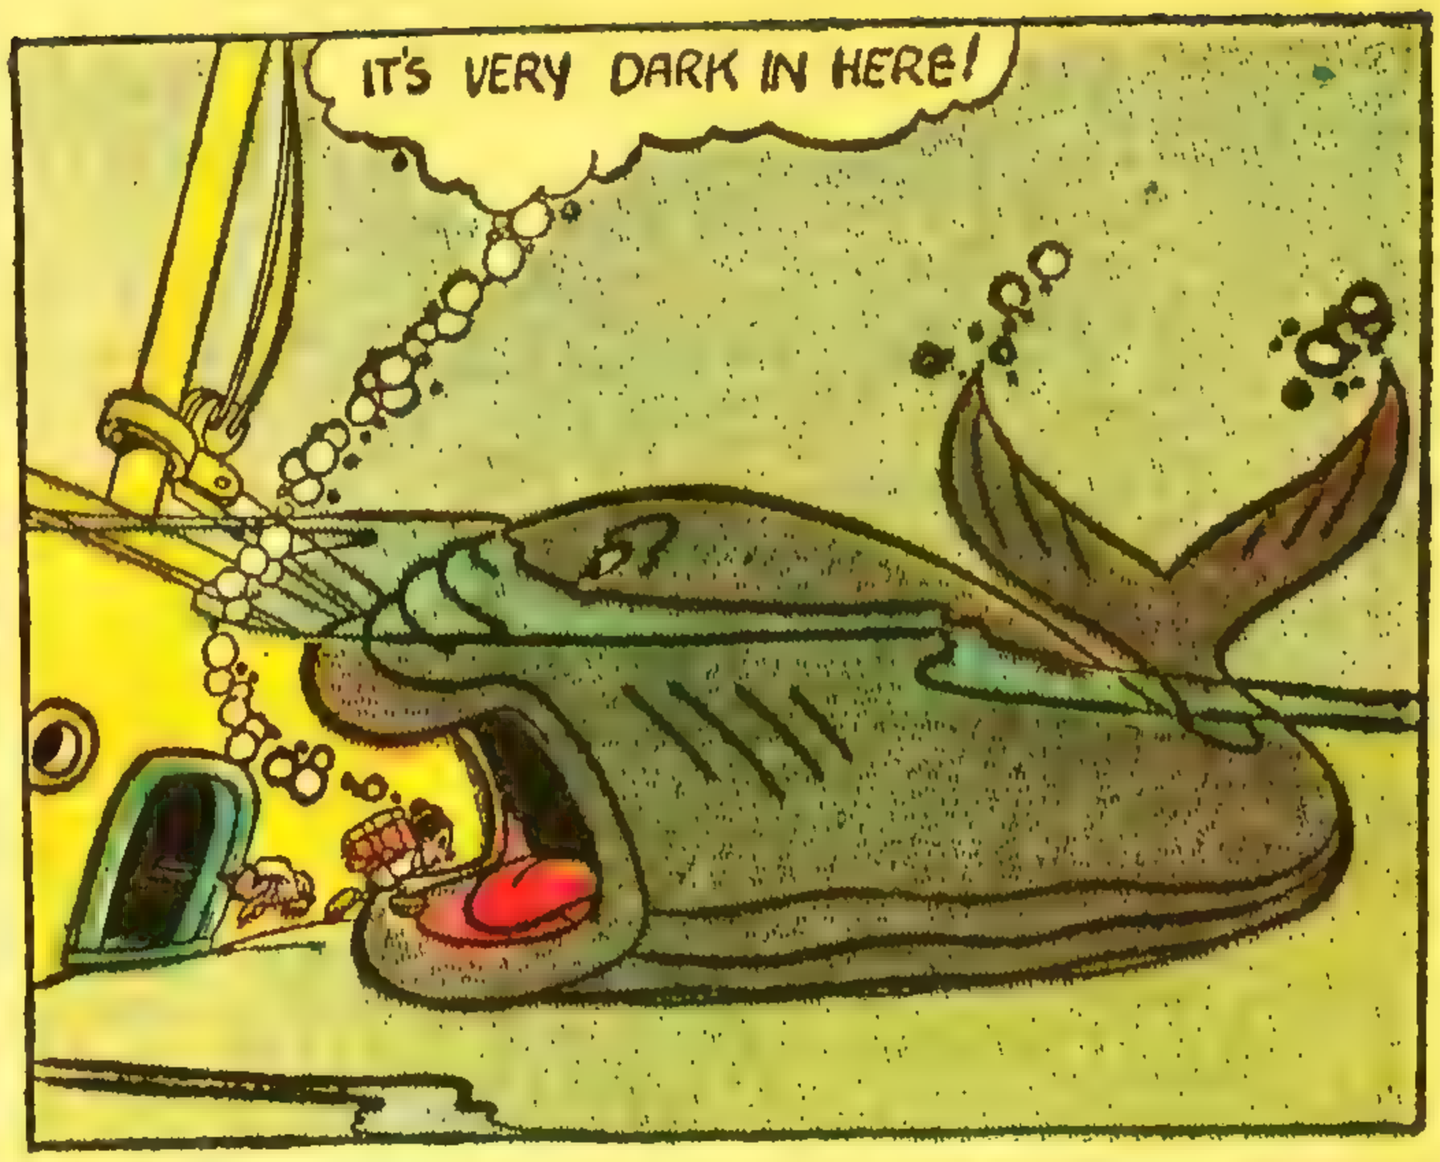




IT'S A GOOD THING I LEARNED ABOUT TYING KNOTS WITH THE BOY SCOUTS!
I'M GLAD THAT OCTUPUS NEVER JOINED THE SCOUTS!



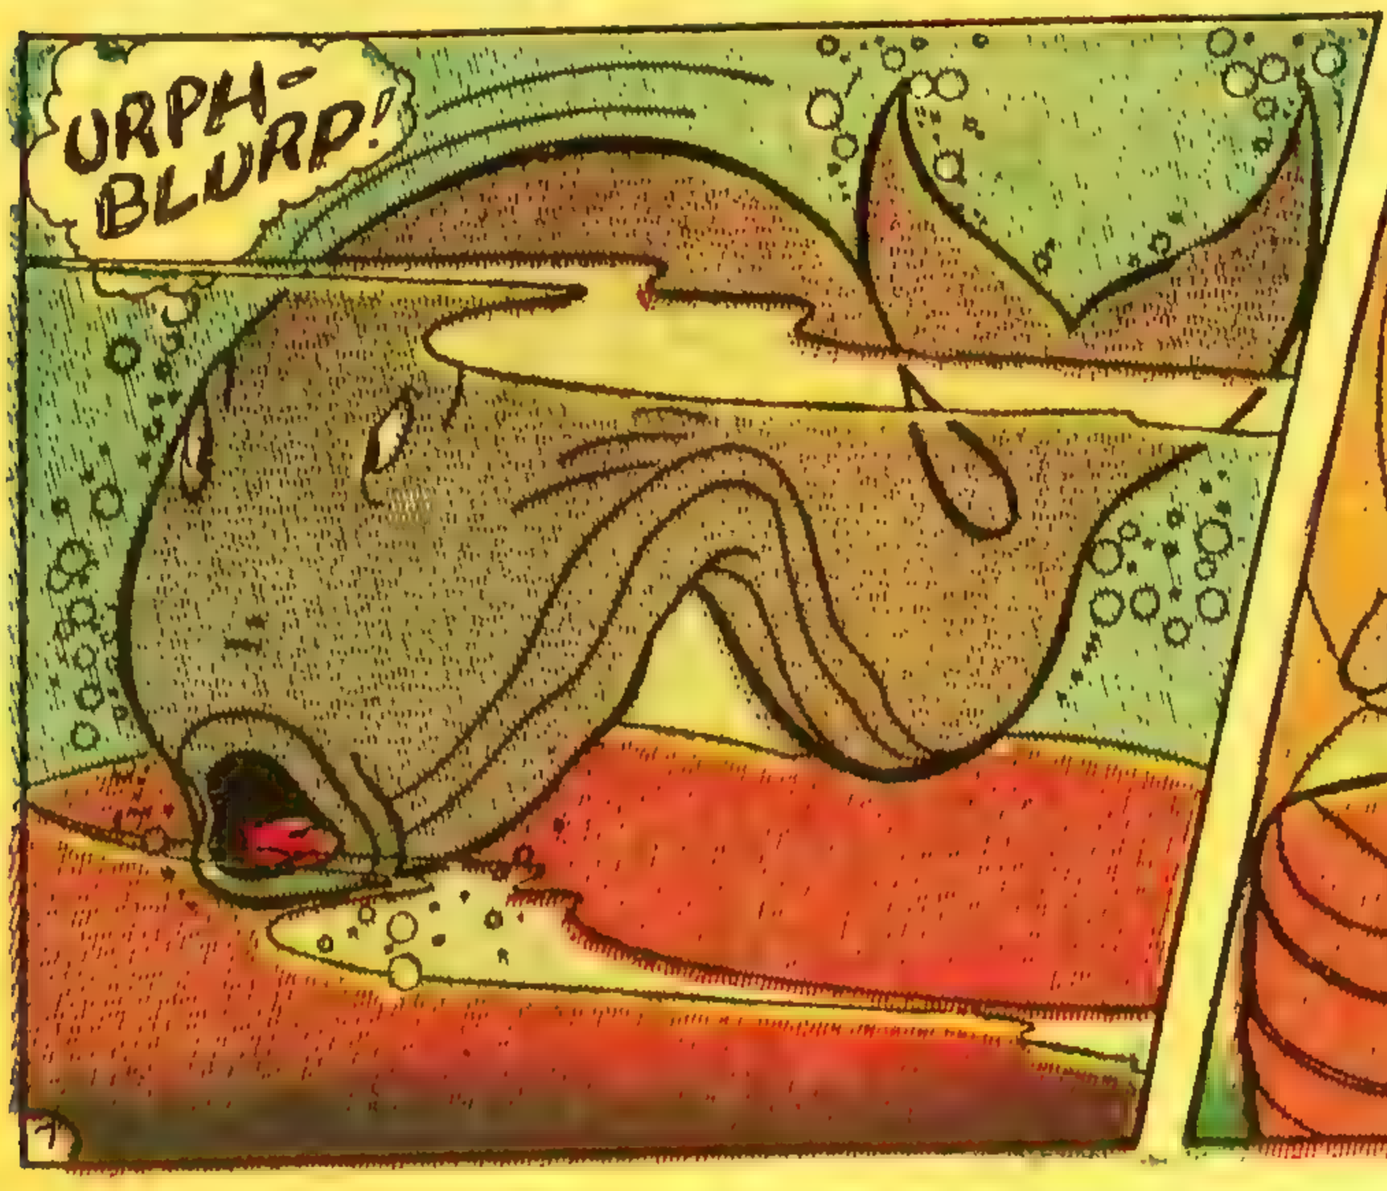
WHICH DOOR DID WE COME IN?
I THINK IT'S THE ONE TO THE RIGHT!



IT'S VERY DARK IN HERE!

WHAT KIND OF A PLACE IS THIS ANYWAY?
I DON'T KNOW BUT IT DON'T LOOK GOOD TO ME!

WHAM!

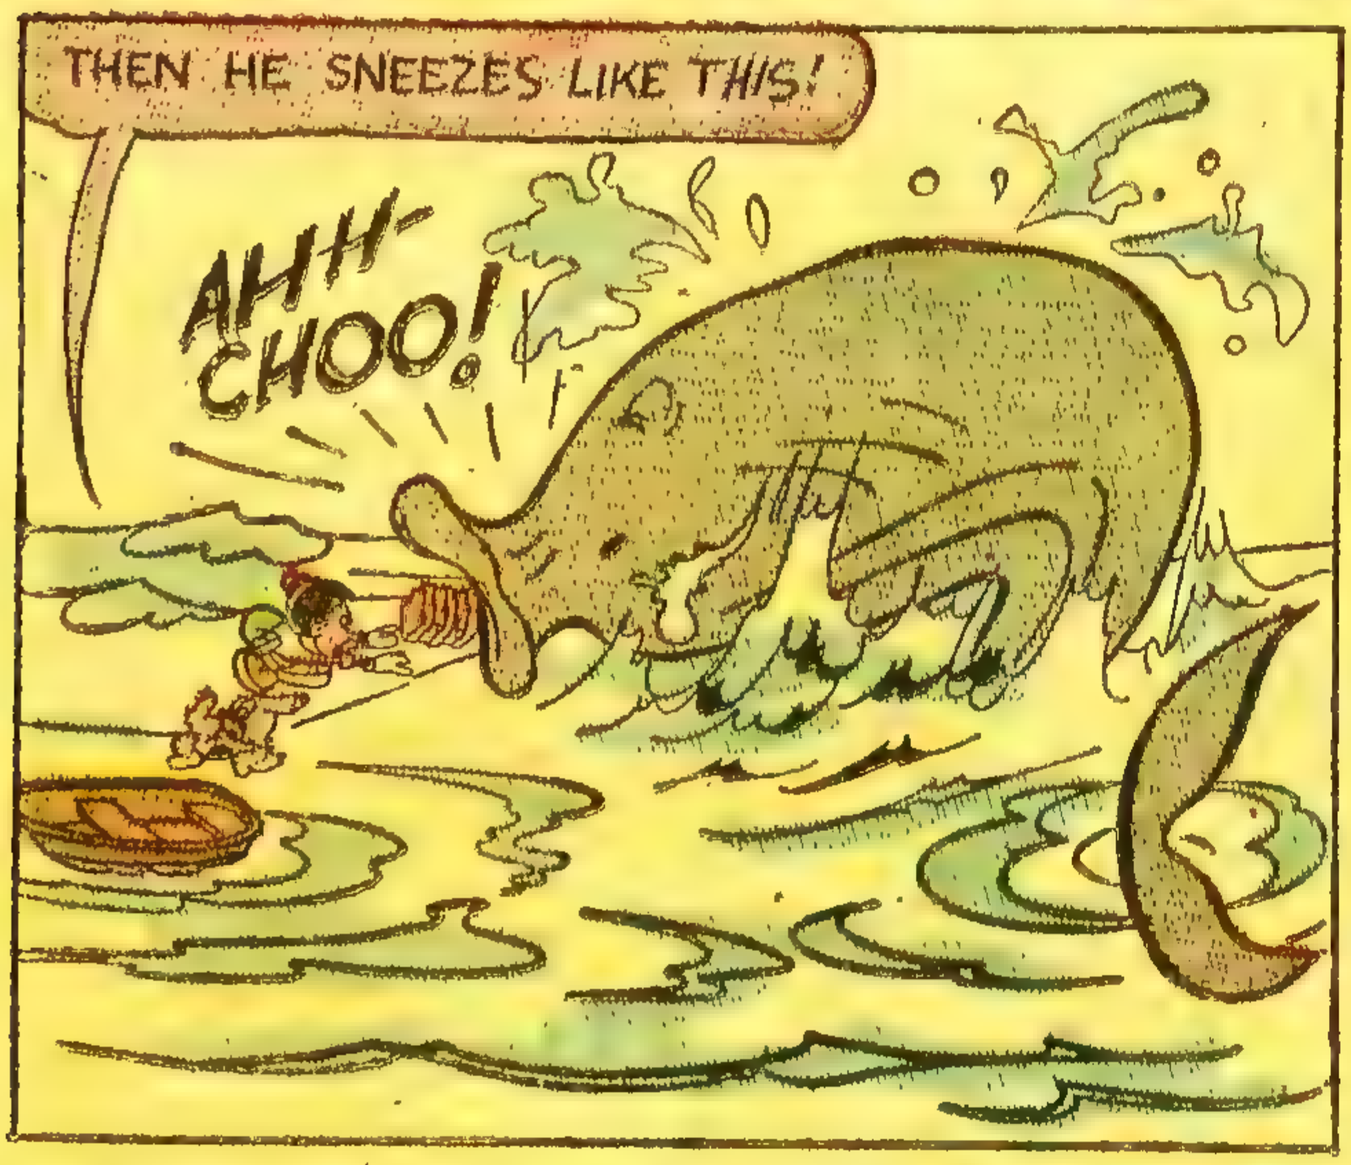


URPH-BLURP!

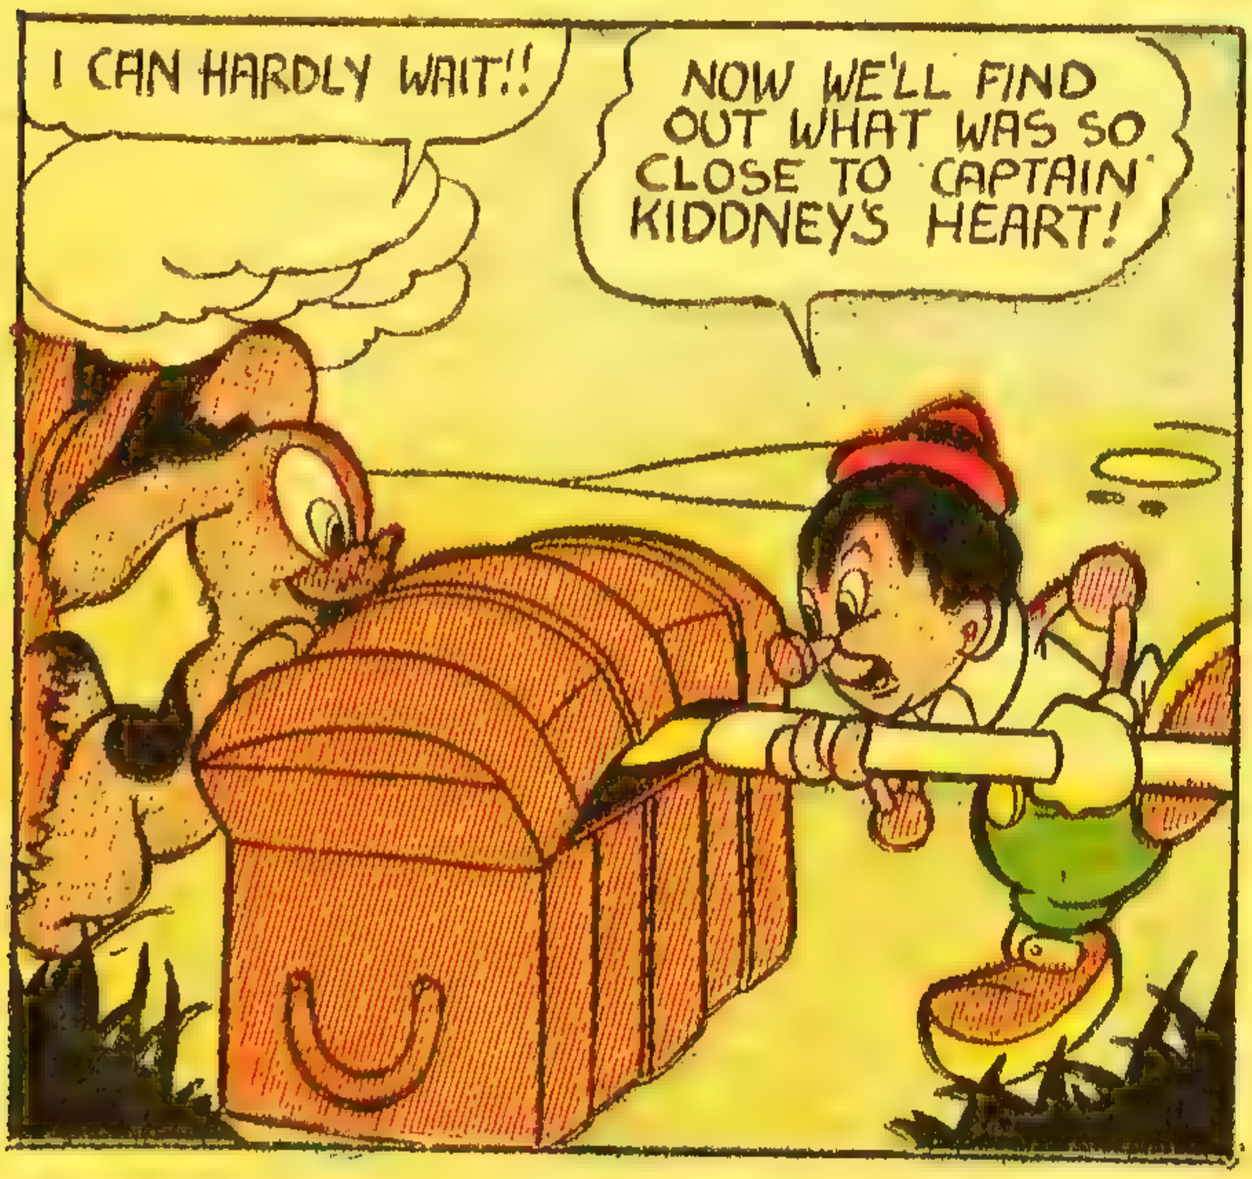
I SAW THIS HAPPEN TO SOME GUY IN THE MOVIES ONCE! WE'RE INSIDE A WHALE!
NOW WE'LL NEVER GET OUT!

MAYBE NOT, BUT I'VE GOT AN IDEA!!
I HOPE IT'S GOOD! THIS RIDE IS GETTING TOO ROUGH!

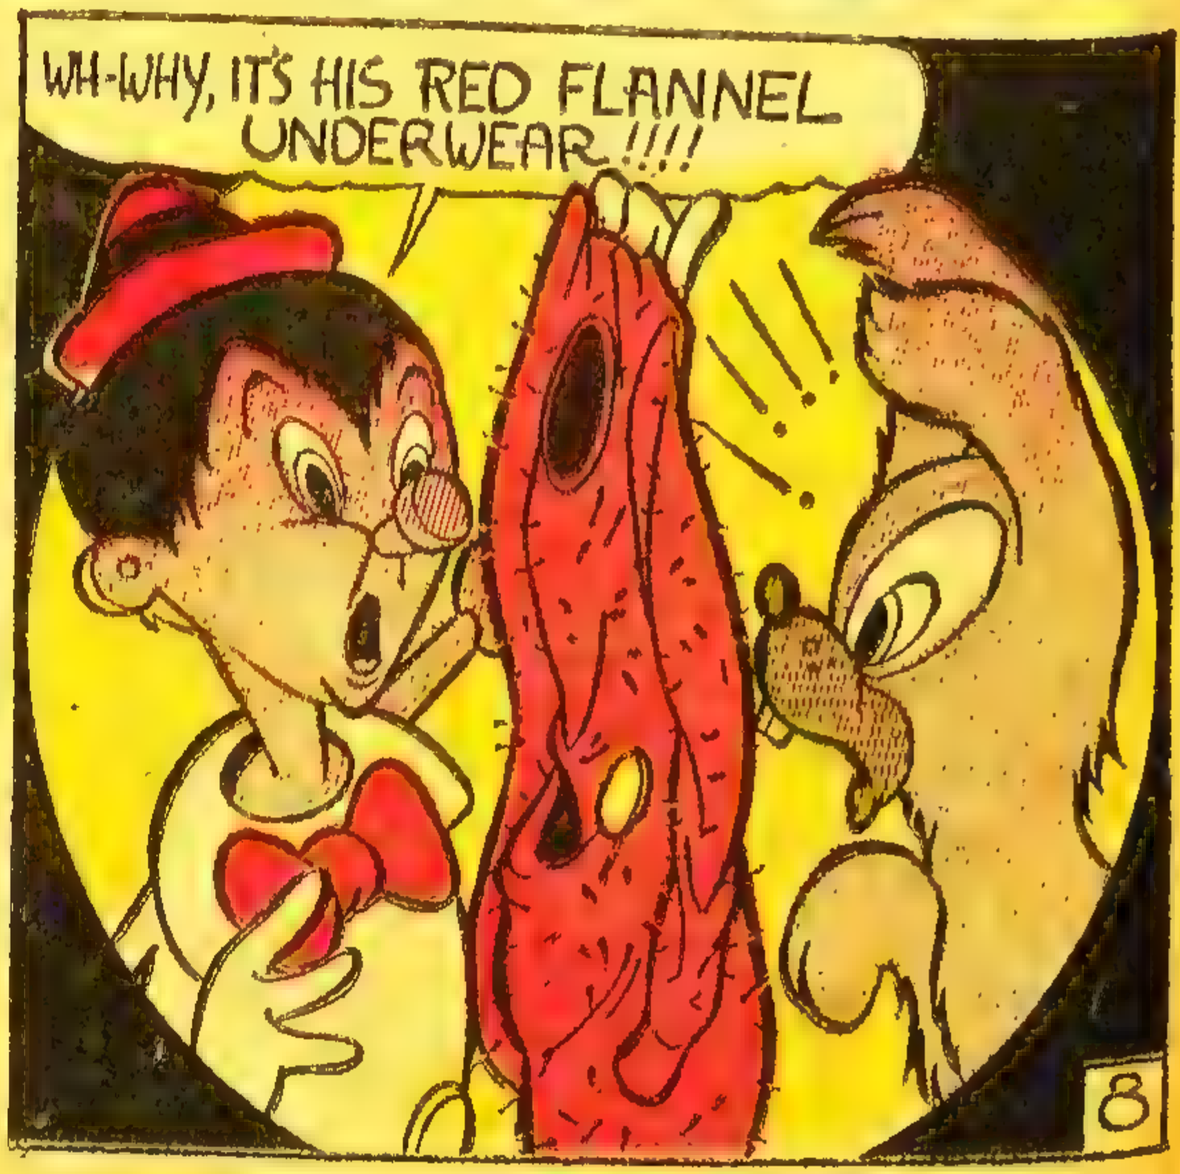
FIRST I TICKLE HIS THROAT WITH MY TAIL LIKE THIS--



THEN HE SNEEZES LIKE THIS!
AHH-CHOO!



I CAN HARDLY WAIT!!
NOW WE'LL FIND OUT WHAT WAS SO CLOSE TO CAPTAIN KIDDNEY'S HEART!



WH-WHY, IT'S HIS RED FLANNEL UNDERWEAR!!!!
